Water Steadily Flowing into Lake Elsinore

By DOLORES MAYHALL

After years and years of desperate hope, the citizens of Elsinore were rewarded when the newly installed valves at the Lakeview site were turned on. The date was February 1, a bright, warm Saturday, and to the joy of the thousands of persons who had come for the impressive water-turning-on ceremony the button was pressed and the water began its flow.

The crowd cheered as the water, flowed up through the bubblers and then slowly wended its way down the channel toward the Railroad Canyon Dam.

The ceremony for the turning on of the water began at 2 p.m. with Senator

Speakers for the event were Hugo Fisher, administrator of the State Resources Agency, and one of the many men who worked to make the filling of Lake Elsinore a reality.

James Krieger, Counselor for Western Municipal Water District acted as master of ceremonies.

Edward Dolder, chief of the State Division of Beaches and Parks, the agency in charge of the entire Lake Elsinore Recreation Area program.

William Jones, chairman of the County Board of Supervisors; Richard Hibbert president of the Lake Elsinore Park and Recreation District board; Joe Jensen, chairman of the Metropolitan Water District board and Robert Skinner, general manager and chief engineer for Metropolitan Water District.

During the introduction of dignitaries, a large key was presented to Hugo Fisher to be given to Governor Pat Brown, who was unable to attend the ceremony. The inscription on the key read "Key to Elsinore's Dam Dam, Gov. Pat."

Also introduced to the audience were well-known figureheads in the fight for water. Men such as the representatives of Western Municipal Water Company's board—John Young president; Arthur M. Weirick, Howard Boylan and Jim Cook.

Everett Grubb, general manager of Western; James Whitehead and Jim Holman of the Division of Beaches and Parks. John Brier, Willard Shank of the Attorney General's office; Robert Diemer, George Fox, Al Cranston, Albert A. Webb, H. J. Mills.

Francis Bueche, Paul Anderson, William Cook, Norman E. Davis and William Jones, all members of the Riverside County Board of Supervisors.

Local representatives of the Elsinore Park and Recreation Board were also introduced. They were Iva Keegan, John Edwards, Lyle Hodges, Frank de Pasquale and president Richard Hibbert.

Then the mayors of Riverside, Corona, Perris and Elsinore were introduced, along with the members of the Elsinore City Council and Planning Commission and Jay Guler, City Administrator for the City of Elsinore.

As the water left the Lakeview site it began its winding way down the San Jacinto River bed and flowed to Railroad Canyon Reservoir.

On Sunday, February 2, the gates at Railroad Canyon were opened and the water left the dam to continue onward down the canyon, under the San Jacinto Bridge located at Highway 71 and to the newly cleared channel into the then dry Lake Elsinore.

Let's do something about the roads

It is time citizens of Elsinore, Perris, Murrieta and all of the towns in the immediate vicinity get together and onto the backs of the officials of the road departments and request that they do something about bigger and better roads leading to Lake Elsinore.

At the various meetings I attend, I always ask one question: "Is your organization, as a group, doing anything at all to let the road department know you want better roads to Lake Elsinore?"

Asking this question in any town other than Elsinore seems strange, but have you tried to drive to Elsinore through the town of Perris and on Highway 74? It takes thirty minutes to an hour, to go 12 miles on the weekend. And the Corona road — bumper to bumper, for 23 miles. Railroad Canyon Road, which has more curves than any sweater girl, has cars streaming down it also.

The traffic that comes over the mountain from San Juan Capistrano looks like a row of busy ants — all trying to get ahead of one another.

Those familiar with the Valley who try the Old Mission Trail from Murrieta find that it too is an extremely busy road. Even the winding back road that goes past the Elsinore Cemetery is being well used.

We, the people of Elsinore Valley, invited each of these travelers and visitors into our town to enjoy our lake and state park. Are we going to kill one or two each weekend, or have them so discouraged with the traffic problem that they won't want to come back, rather than write the Department of Highways and let those in charge know of our concern?

Are the citizens of Perris going to have the traffic go to the Newport Road because Highway 74, between Perris and Elsinore, isn't built fast enough to accommodate the traffic?

Let's discuss the roads in the City of Elsinore and those that go around the lake.

First — most of you readers know "Four Corners," where Riverside Drive and Lakeshore-Rice Roads intersect. From the city of Elsinore and taking that road to go around the lake do you realize that you now must wait anywhere from 2 to 10 minutes to make a left turn during the weekend traffic? And when you do turn, you take your life in your hands. We need signals too.

Railroad Avenue — Jammed, people parked along the San Jacinto River bridge watching the water flow.

You wonder where the police are. Elsinore's Police Department, which is very good in my opinion, can't patrol the entire area in one or two police cars, although they do try. Progress has swept in on Elsinore and its local officials, and by golly, Elsinore had better catch up with it — and so had all of you residents.

Show your personal interest in this immediate problem on highways and roadways. Write to: State of California, Department of Public Works, Division of Highways, District 8, P. O. Box 231, San Bernardino, California. Address your desires for better state highways to C. V. Kane, District Engineer.

Then get in touch with your local mayors: Robert Warren in Perris and Thomas Bartlett in Esinore. Talk to the presidents of the various chambers of commerce and to the heads of all organizations.

Water is flowing into Lake Elsinore today because the people pushed and that is how we'll get safe roads. ■

To Jack Reed's Royal Ring Neck Shooting Club

By DOLORES MAYHALL

The backwoods girls are at it again. The saying that the best things in life have to be looked for is certainly true in our case, for early on a Saturday morning, Cleo Rhoads of Hodges Ford Company, Rubie and I went hunting.

Now Rubie and I are the greatest of all hunters, for I spend my days hunting and pecking on the typewriter, shooting out the stories that fill the Revue and Rubie shoots photos of all kinds for publication.

Cleo's talent, other than selling Fords, is that he is an excellent shot with a gun and hunting for pheasant is right up his alley.

This particular Saturday, as the sun was rising in the east, we began our drive to the Royal Ring Neck Shooting and Game Club, located just 18 miles east of Temecula off of Highway 79 (you drive 16 miles on Highway 71 and then the number changes to 79). You will not only be at the Club, but in the town of Aguanga, with its beautiful rolling hills and countryside.

At the club we were greeted by owner Jack Reed, who has been owner-operator of the 320-acre ranch for 14 years. It wasn't until two years ago that Jack began the shooting club, until then he was a breeder and raiser of the ring-neck pheasants and Chukar Partridges.

The hunting club was started by Jack because of an experience he had had a few years prior. It seems that he went to another hunting club and he watched as the hunters were lined up on the bank of a stream and the operators or that club released a number of birds and the hunters just raised their guns and shot. This held no appeal to Jack, who is a sportsman at heart and he decided that with all of the land he had he could really let a hunter be a hunter.

In other words, if you want a bird, you, your dog and your gun go out and find it. But this isn't bad, because the dogs we saw at the Club really point them out to their masters.

During our tour of the premises, we watched "Duke," a pointer. He was just walking and prancing a bit for our benefit, a born ham, when all at once he perked up his ears and took off with a speed that was almost unbelievable. The next thing we knew is that Duke was circling a low bush and then he stopped, raised his leg, his tail went straight out and his nose pointed directly toward the bush. Two of the hunters in the field moved toward the bush and flushed the bird. Wham, it was down and Duke was off to retrieve.

This was the first time I had ever been anywhere near a hunt and as the guns were going off and the birds hitting the ground, had there been a fox hole, I would have filed for residency.

Although Jack takes no chances, each hunter is an expert and to date there has not been an accident on his fields.

This is a day-shoot club and the season runs from October to the end of March with shooting hours from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and the rate for using the club is four birds in the field for $20, with special family rates.

Jack and his wife, Verna, raise about 30,000 birds per year that they sell to other hunting clubs and about 2 or 3 thousand that they raise for the club's hunters.

The Reeds are the parents of four children; Les, 16; Donna, 15 and Marsha, 12, all of who attend the Hemet High School while John, age 11 is a student at the Cottonwood School located in the area. That school is one of the very few one room, first to sixth grade schools left in the vicinity.

Our biggest laugh of the day came from our escort, Cleo. We had parked the car at the foot of a rather large hill and wanted a picture from the top of it so that we could photograph the entire premises.

Rubie and I started up the side of the hill, skirting brush, missing chuck holes and working our way around the variety of bush. We neared the top and Cleo looking quite surprised remarked, "Hey, you gals do all right. I didn't think you'd make it to the top."

We explained that our treks through potato fields, the Salton Sea, Guenther's and such was getting us in the best of shape and pretty soon we'd be able to do a story on Mt. Whitney.

It was quite a day, for in the early morn, when we pulled into the Club we met three hunters, just unloading guns and dogs from the back of their car and about four hours later, we again met the three men, only this time they had eleven pheasants and chuckars among them.

We walked back to the clubhouse where there is a pot of coffee, that is always kept on for the convenience of the guests, and there we listened while a number of the guests told of their exploits in the hunting world.

If the pilgrims thought they had experiences, it is my opinion that these hunters could match one for one. The more we lis-

The House On The Hill

was built by the Underwoods, Ford and Fran, of Perris and according to Ford the reason he built the house that overlooks Perris Valley, Moreno, Sun City and other towns was so that he could watch "all the Fords go by."

This family has a Michael Ford, Thomas Ford and a Robert Ford and a proud parent and grandparent is Ford himself.

The route to this house on the hill is down Perris Boulevard toward Riverside, a right turn on Orange Street, and then a left turn on El Nito and there it is, built on the side of the hill—the house that Ford built.

This house consists of three bedrooms, an expansive living room which overlooks the valley, dining area, kitchen and baths and is tastefully furnished for comfortable everyday living.

Ford was born in Missouri, spent some time in Arkansas and then moved to Santa Ana, where he earned his living in the ceramic tile business.

Charles Robinson and the late George A. Sattler, were the two people who helped Ford get started in his present occupation as farmer.

These two men offered him the management of 1200 acres of land in Perris and he in turn saw to the planting and harvesting of potatoes, onions and barley. As the years passed, the acreage increased from 1200 acres to 5000, but now his son, Tom, who married Perris's Judy Trueblood, gives his dad more than a helping hand.

Fran Underwood is the owner-operator of Fran's Fashion Shop located on D Street in Perris.

Her career began five years ago in August. It seems that the Underwoods were entertaining John Kirkpatrick one evening, about five years ago and he was telling them of the 5 & 10 moving out of the building which now houses

Fran's Fashion Shop, and asked Fran why she didn't put in a dress shop in the emptied building. It was just a question, Fran was a housewife at the time, but today it is a going business and Fran is head lady in ladies wear and fashions.

The Underwoods are the parents of three children; Judy, who is now Mrs. Judy Haglund and the mother of three sons, Steven, David and Michael Ford; Tom, who has one son, the youngest of the Underwood grandchildren (see photo) and was named Robert Ford and then there is Jim, the youngest of Ford's and Fran's children. He makes his home with them in the house on the hill.

Ford is a charter member of the Sun City Lion's Club, a member of the Peris Masonic Lodge, but best of all he loves the outdoors. At least once a week, according to Ford, he goes on the green, and there he digs into the dirt with a nine-iron, driver, putter or what have you. Now here is a true farmer, on his day off he digs, through at least eighteen holes.

Fran is a member of the PEO, and the Eastern Star and although her time is limited she does enjoy an occasional game of golf.

And there it is, a morning spent with the Underwoods and a thumbnail sketch of two active people who live in a lovely, restful place, perfect for grown children and growing grandchildren to visit and a perfect spot for entertaining their many friends. ■

Then Get A Desk Sign From Sally

By DOLORES MAYHALL

Where did you get your desk sign, or the badge with your name engraved on it that you wear on your lapel, better yet where did the trophies come from that your organization gave out at the last awards dinner?

If they didn't come from Ajax Engraving in Elsinore then you have missed something.

You have missed meeting Sally Glick, the owner-operator of the business and you aren't shopping at home (shame).

My first meeting with Sally was in the printing field. I delivered her advertising brochures to the little pink building at 880 Railroad Avenue and there watched her make name badges — big ones, little ones, black and red ones, some with pins and some without and then desk signs. (I bought four). Some of these are in gold holders, some in silver, some in holders with slots for business cards and fountain pens—all behind the doors of that pink building.

Sally is from Boston, Massachusetts and moved to California originally for its sunny climate and for general health reasons. In Los Angeles she learned the trade of name badge engraving from a cousin.

In January of 1960 Sally moved into the town of Elsinore and began the first Ajax Engraving shop on Main Street, in the same location as the present Tor-

With the New Microwave Cooking

The day has come when one can prepare instant coffee, froached egg and bacon in just 2 minutes and 35 seconds with the new microwave electronic equipment.

How to prepare this breakfast was demonstrated by Marjorie Helm, of San Bernardino, Home Division Supervisor of Southern California Edison at a noon luncheon meeting held in the Perris district office banquet hall for the members of the Perris Valley Chamber of Commerce.

Through this modern method of cooking it takes 45 seconds to heat a cup of water for instant coffee; break an egg in a Pyrex dish and set it into this fabulous oven and in 20 seconds it is not fried nor poached, but froached and then onto the bacon. You can place it on a paper plate, place a paper towel on the top (saves the grease from splattering on the oven's sides) and in one and one-half minutes you have bacon done to a turn. Total time 2 minutes and 35 seconds.

Microwave cooking is the newest method of modern cooking and uses power tubes which send out high frequency sound waves in a dispersed pattern. These microwaves move the molecules in the food product causing them to rub together and the resulting friction creates enough heat inside of the item to cook it.

The cost of the unit used for the demonstration is just under $700, but the cost of operation is 40 per cent less than conventional electrically heated ovens.

Harvey Goertzen of the MSW Potato Shed, wanted to know about baking potatoes and he furnished 4 white rose potatoes for the demonstrator to bake. It took 4 minutes for one potato and 8 minutes for four.

The cooking is done on glass, paper or any other material that does not contain metal, and the dish or tray on which the food is cooked does not get hot, it remains cool with the exception of the heat generated by the food inside the container.

Marjorie and her assistant, Elaine Burroughs, district home economist, showed another of their talents to the group, for they prepared and served an entire roast beef and noodle dinner. The rolled roast was sliced by Jack Savage with the new electric carver, which is now on the market and should be a boon to husbands, who do the family carving.

Mrs. Helm also showed how packaged frozen foods can be cooked, directly in the packages, in the modern oven and how a snack of hot dog, onion rings, fries and split pea soup can all be set into the oven at the same time and in a few minutes be ready to eat. ■

"SPECIAL MEETING"

Turns into a surprise party for Gerry Hillis

Gerry Hillis received notice that she was to attend a special meeting of the Sedco Hills Extension Group on Monday, January 27 at the Sedco Hills Clubhouse.

But when she arrived at the meeting, which was called by vice president Marge Kratsch, she was surprised to learn that it was a surprise farewell party given in her honor, and to greet her were over fifty friends and relatives.

Many groups were represented in which Gerry had been a member or had held office: The Elsinore Woman's Club, Happy Hour Club, Elsinore Unit of Parliamentarians, Farm Bureau and Eastern Star. Also present were several members of the Wildomar Extension Group. Many did not belong to any organization but came to help honor this active woman. Marea Shaw, a former resident of the Valley, came from Redlands to join in the fun, as did Gerry's grandchildren, Cathy and Karen.

Gerry and her husband, Warren, are moving to a farm in Anderson, California, and through the ingenuity of Della Clark, the table decorations were in keeping with that idea — hoes and rakes (without the handles), spikes, horseshoes, hinges, chains and just about anything one could think of in the farming category. Della had aluminized all of these items and consequently the table was uniquely decorated.

A farm scene (see photo) about 40 inches square was the highlight of the celebration. Again, the inventive Della had an original idea.

The miniature farm was complete with a white picket fence, red barn and a barnyard that was filled with a variety of salt and pepper shakers, all in the shape of animals, which each member was asked to bring. Gerry is a collector of shakers and to date she has 61 pair and as she remarked, "some are out of this world."

Hazel Gregory, secretary and publicity chairman for the Sedco Hills Extension group, prepared a "This is your life in Elsinore" booklet and after reading it aloud, presented it to the guest of honor, who also received a scrapbook of all the events and activities in which she had participated.

Gerry has been president of the group for over a period of years and at one time served as its secretary. She is also a past secretary of the Riverside County

Advisory Council of Extension Work.

After the surprises, gingerbread and coffee were served by Della Clark, Hazel Nedis, Katherine Sipos, Virginia Nelson, Eunice Mason and Florence Behrens, who were hostesses for the day.

At the close of the party festivities, a "special meeting" was held and Marge Kratsch was named the new president of the Sedco Hills Group and Della Clark will serve as vice president.

Are the donuts from the Donut Tree

What makes a man a donut baker? Why a man that knows the ingredients that go into the product.

Lee Carson and his wife, Marian, recently opened the Donut Tree, located at the Sportsman's Lodge at 2090 Railroad Avenue in Elsinore and they are turning out dozens of donuts daily.

Lee's experience in this business did not begin when he spent four years serving with the United States Marines, nor when he was a radio-navigator with Transocean Airlines of Oakland. It began after that, when he was a salesman of baker's supplies.

Marian enjoys selling the donuts made by her husband. She is about ready to ring up another sale of coffee and donut.

Lee serviced many baker's accounts and it seemed that one baker would have a problem and tell it to Lee, then Lee would ask each of his other accounts how they would solve it, and by the time he arrived back at his troubled customer, he would have the solution, many times more than one.

He learned the best of ingredients to use in donuts, and he learned to cope with problems that he was having—for hadn't he solved hundreds like it before? But now, his knowledge was really paying off.

The Donut Tree was opened on February 7, and Lee and Marian are quite new at the "own your own business" bit, but nevertheless they have turned out of the "deep-fry" many varieties of donuts already, among them being glazed, cake, cinnamon and the cake-frosting type. They are now working on the Old World type of donut.

Not only will they serve you coffee and donuts at the counter but they are able to wholesale them to church groups and organizations that wish to purchase in large quantities.

Prior to this venture, Marian spent many years in the secretarial field.

The Donut Tree will be open every day and Lee and Marian will be on hand to the customers, who still want to know "where the hole in the donut went." ■

HOW DO YOU FIND A BOOK IN THE LIBRARY?

Kenneth McClintock says "Marry the Librarian"

A library is not always a romantic place but often romances do develop there. At least that is what young Hedy Klein-Mollhoff of Westphalia, Germany found out when she met a young American GI, Kenneth McClintock of Long Beach, California who was stationed there there with the 66th Tank Division. Undertaking a special training assignment for the army, Kenneth found it necessary to seek out a library and there he met the librarian of the Rhine Main Air Force Library and the romance began.

But life had not always been romantic for Hedy who was but one of the many victims of the tragedies of war. She first lost her mother in a bombing raid in June, 1943 while her father was killed in October in a similar raid, both tragedies occurring in their home. As if that were not enough, before December of that year, Hedy had been notified by the German Army that six of her brothers were reported missing in action. She has never heard anything since. Only Hedy and a sister still living in Germany are left of a large family of nine children.

Hedy's father had been an inspector of all the coal mines in the Ruhr Valley but with his death, changes came to Hedy. The high school she was attending closed in 1943 on account of the war. The German Police put her to work in a gun factory.

When the war ended in 1945 and the American

Hedy Klein-Mollhoff McClintock, had a lot to learn before she became a citizen of the United States.

Army of Occupation came, Hedy was able to obtain a position with the Americans because of her knowledge of English. She had taken English for six months in high school and now it was proving most advantageous to her and the army personnel. Surveys were being made, families moved, and similar activities undertaken, all demanding the services of an interpreter.

It was the American Army that arranged for her library training from 1945-1947. At the end of her training she was placed in the Rhine Main Library until 1952 where she met her future husband. Then she worked for the Second Army until 1956 when she and Kenneth were married in Baumholder near the French border.

Hedy was unable to secure a visa to come over with her husband but after a six months' waiting period, she flew over to Los Angeles International Airport and there met Kenneth who had flown in from Fort Polk, Louisiana to meet her. They remained at Fort Polk until 1957 where Hedy became known as the "little German girl with the southern accent" since that was the first American speech she had heard in this country. She can say "youall" but she says she still cannot say "Massachusettes."

The young couple were in California only 14 days before going to the Elsinore Naval and Military School where they have been ever since.

Captain Kenneth McClintock is the present Associate Commandant. Hedy is also part of the school staff as Quartermaster Assistant. She has had many opportunities to continue her skill in interpreting as she works with the many boys from other lands that attend the school.

Hedy began attending the citizenship classes at the Elsinore Literacy Center in 1962 but the pressure of work at the school was so great that she continued her studies at home under the tutelage of her husband, with the help and encouragement of Mrs. Gertrude Flyte, the school's librarian and also Director of the Citizenship courses at the Literacy Center being taught by Mrs. Emma Butler. Hedy took her tests on December 16 and passed with flying colors.

"What did they ask you, Hedy?" we wanted to know. "Well," she said, "first he said, 'who is the vice-president?" and quick as a wink I said, 'We have none.'" (It was December 16th after the fatal November 22.)

"Then he said, 'Who would take over if the President died?' and I said 'McCormick.' He asked me the name of the Secretary of the Treasury but I said he would have to excuse me. I couldn't remember. But when he asked me who the Secretary of Defense was I quickly answered 'McNamara.'"

We wonder how many native-born citizens could do as well on that kind of test.

When asked what her impressions of the United States were she replied, "Oh, the bigness of it — the wide open spaces." She said she had long hoped to come to America, even before her marriage, to visit an aunt in Leavenworth, Kansas.

She closed the interview by saying, "I feel I belong to my adopted country. I no longer have the fears I had when I lived on the border of a country at war. I shall try to be—I want to be a very good citizen of America and I am grateful to all who helped me receive this priceless gift." ■

The Skylark Paracenter Invitational Sport Parachute Meet was held at Skylark Airport two weekends during February and was sponsored by Cy and Larry Perkins, owners of the airport.

Hundreds of skydivers, both men and women, hit the silk during this meet, where they competed for trophies in three events: accuracy, style and team.

Parachutists from all over the nation arrived to participate at Skylark which is the second largest jump center in the United States, according to officials.

Among the winners was Bob Holler of Croom, Maryland, winner of the overall skydiving trophy. He won on the basis of his performances in the accuracy and style parachute jumping events. Rod Pack of Pacoima was second place winner.

Legitimate Theater being built in Elsinore

Under construction is the first theater to be built in Elsinore for legitimate shows. The theater is located in the center of Lake Elsinore Village, which is also under construction on Railroad Avenue.

The 82 one-story garden apartments as well as the theater are being built by Bernard Weiss and David Young and when completed will be under the resident management of Karl Weiss, father of Bernard.

Karl, who earned his living as a printer, has a great love of the theater and through his efforts Elsinore residents will be able to see legitimate stage shows. ■

The Home Economics Department of the Elsinore Union High School will stage its annual Spring Fashion Show in the basement of the Methodist Church in Elsinore.

Along with the show will be a display of woodshop and art class work. The fashion show will be in conjunction with the regular meeting of the High School PTA and will begin at 7:30 in the evening. Everyone is invited to attend. ■

Is your lucky day Friday the thirteenth?

It can be if you are one of the persons who opened the February issue of La Laguna Revue, turned to the back cover, read the Valley Heating and Appliance ad, and filled out the coupon located on the bottom corner of the page and deposited it in the box located at either of the stores owned by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pettit of Perris.

In fact, you still aren't too late, cut out the coupon, deposit it and on Friday the thirteenth you could hear a knock on your door, open it and a delivery man will ask you where to hook up your brand new Westinghouse dryer or in which room you want your coffee - table styled stereo (front room please, in front of the couch), and all you have to do is fill out the coupon.

The occasion for this drawing is the grand opening of the Pettits second store, located at 328 D Street in Perris, where small appliances as well as stoves, refrigerators, washers and other white goods can be found.

The Pettits moved to Perris about 13 years ago, coming from St. Paul where Frank was in the sheet metal and air conditioning business.

Frank and his wife, Margaret are the parents of five children, Larry the oldest, who works at the store located at 171 E. First Street; Dianne and Donna, twins; Shannon and Tim.

The Pettits are civic minded people taking an active interest in local baseball clubs, and Frank is a member of the Lions and an active member of the chamber.

Just think, if you were ambitious and have taken advantage of the Pettits' grand opening gift offer, next month in the Revue, could be your photo and next to it the dryer or stereo given you with Valley's compliments.

See you in the Revue . . . I hope. ■

Hollis had been manager of the Kings Inn since its opening in May of 1962 and with his wife and family was the first resident of Sun City.

He served as the first president of the Sun City Rotary Club and was active in many other activities at Sun City.

Mrs. Hammond is a teacher at the Elsinore Elementary School.

The new manager has much experience in the business having at one time owned his own restaurant at Boulder. Prior to that he was food and beverage manager for Boulder's Harvest House and owner-manager of a resort hotel in Estes Park in the Colorado Rockies.

Mrs. Reed, Joan, and their three children will remain in Colorado at least until April before moving here to join Duane. At present, the future plans of Hollis are not known, but it is hoped that he will remain in the area. ■ first breakfast meeting held by the group. It had been agreed by the board members at the January meeting to hold the monthly meetings at 7 a.m. and in this way give some of the members, who have not been able to attend due to too many evening commitments, a chance to participate.

Guest speakers were Lyle Watson, Assistant Park Supervisor and Jewel "Bud" Caughell, the new State Park Supervisor. Information about the state park, depth of water, (which on Monday the 17th was approximately 2½ feet deep) and the charge for launching boats, was the topic of the day.

C. H. "Boomer" Lee was appointed to be a director on the board and he will replace Fred Klarer.

The board approved and accepted three new memberships in the chamber. They were .... Chamberlain, Californian Bear and The Holiday.

The next meeting will be held on March 16 at the Elsinore Recreation Center Cafe (The Wreck) at 7 a.m. and all chamber members are urged to attend. ■

Garey Carr

Among the many pioneers who headed for California following the gold rush days of 1849 my favorite was a man named Thomas A. Garey.

Born in Cincinnati, Ohio, July 7, 1830, young Garey was reared in Hagerstown, Maryland but moved to Iowa in 1847.

When news of the gold strike reached Iowa, Garey joined a wagon train for California in 1850. He was united in marriage with Louisa J. Smith while enroute and their first child was born in Albuquerque, New Mexico where the couple remained for about a year. They arrived in El Monte in 1852 after many encounters with the Indians. At one point nearly half the members of the wagon train decided to take a short cut through dangerous Indian country and all the members were massacred with the exception of one little girl who was captured and raised by the Indians and later escaped and was able to tell what happened.

Shortly after arriving in El Monte Garey bought a tract of land in Los Angeles bounded by San Pedro Street on the east, Maple Avenue on the west, and extending from Washington to Adams Street. It was here that he built his first home facing on San Pedro street, a three story mansion that ranked among the finest homes in Los Angeles at that time.

Garey was the first man to engage in the wholesale nursery business in Southern California. He specialized in citrus trees. The demand for young orange, lemon and lime trees at that time was great and he did what he could to meet the demand. His sale of fruit trees the first year was $75,000 and during the next three years the gross exceeded $175,000. He sent abroad for the best varieties and it was he who introduced and named the Mediterranean Sweet orange, the Paper rind St. Michael and also the Eureka lemon which is today our best lemon.

Garey served as president of the Los Angeles County Pomological Society and was overseer of the State Grange and of the Council of the District composed of 16 sub-ordinate Granges, and master of the Los Angeles Grange.

He helped to found the towns of Pomona and Artesia. Headed by Thomas A. Garey the Los Angeles Immigration and Land Co-operative Association was incorporated in 1874 with a capital stock of $250,000 and took over some 2700 acres of the vast Jones ranch which was later to become the city of Pomona. Its board of directors consisted of Garey, president, C. E. White, vice president, L. M. Holt, secretary, Milton Thomas, manager, R. M. Town, assistant manager and H. G. Grow, treasurer. All of these men have streets named for them in Pomona.

With an ever increasing demand for young citrus trees, Garey went all out to produce stock for delivery early in 1890. With more than $200,000 worth of young trees sold and ready for delivery came the great freeze and every tree was killed. The bank closed him out and everything he had including his home was lost.

Undaunted by this calamity this remarkable man took the few thousand dollars he was able to salvage and purchased 8000 acres just 12 miles out of Santa Maria where he established the town of Garey. In 1893 with a heavy mortgage on his newly established cattle ranch, the dam broke, the cattle died, the mortgage was foreclosed and Garey returned to Los Angeles broke.

He then became a mining broker in the hopes of re-couping his losses. In 1909 he died at the age of 79 without the proverbial pot although he did have a window in a modest little cottage in the western part of the city.

He never gave up trying and was ever optimistic that he would someday make a strike in the mining field. He left a rich heritage of accomplishment for succeeding generations that was tax free and worth more than money (although our present Department of Internal Revenue might not agree.)

Why am I writing about Thomas A. Garey? Because I loved and admired him, and besides, he was my grandfather. ■

The Veterans' Memorial Building pictured above was recently offered to the City of Elsinore by the Veterans' organizations of Elsinore. The reason for offering the building is that it is a struggle to raise enough money each month to pay the bills and to meet the note payment of $200 per month. Organizations involved are the American Legion, Lynn Mort Post 200; the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Howard M. Black, Post 1508 and World War One Barracks 924. The building, if the city accepts, will still be used for the Veterans' meetings and dances. The City Council at the date of this writing has not as yet decided if they will take over the building, and pay off the $19,000 mortgage.

Larry Cartier is the new president of the Lake Elsinore Rotary Club. Serving with Larry for the coming year will be Jim McGill, vice president; Cy Perkins, treasurer and Tom Butler as secretary.

The members of the Perris Valley Rotary Club held their annual sweetheart dance and dinner on February 14, at the Perris Valley Inn located at the corner of Nuevo Road and Perris Boulevard.

Residents and various organizations of Perris have been in need of a place where they can wine and dine in the luxury that is afforded by the Inn.

Soft carpeting, excellent dining facilities, coffee shop and cocktail lounge, complete with Frank Lee at the organ, all make for an evening of pleasure.

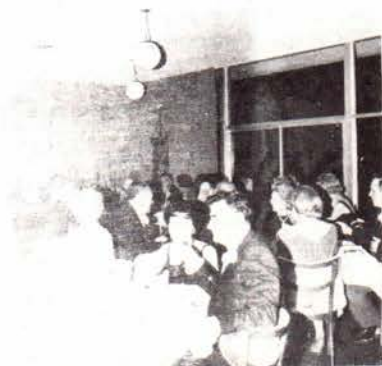

Manager of the Inn and motel is Jim Bickett, formerly of Redding, where he spent four years with Jack's Grill and prior to that was with Buzz Dyer's Chuck Wagon. He is also the Personnel manager for the businesses,

SUN CITY MERCHANTS

To Honor Outstanding Citizens

Early in April two of Sun City's most productive citizens will be recognized for their service to the community. They will be proclaimed "Man and Woman of the Year" and their awards will have been earned for the "behind the scenes work" they have done, not on popularity in the community, according to Wells Fargo, president of the Sun City Merchants Association.

Along with the "Man and Woman of the Year" awards, seven other outstanding citizens will be given public recognition for community service rendered without personal gain during 1963. The seven different categories for awards are: civic group activity, accomplishment in the field of religion, notable work by an organization, workmanship in the field of art, music, crafts and noteworthy accomplishments in sports.

Nomination forms will be available at all shopping center establishments during the month of March and early in April, the forms will be processed and an awards program will be held at the Town Hall in Sun City.

Sunburst Plaques of an original design created for these specific awards will be presented as the climax of the final public meeting.

Adding to the interest, accompanying the announcement of award winners, a distinguished public figure will act as master of ceremonies, Fargo said.

As we turned onto the road which leads to the club we met (from left) Bill Keating, Adrian "Spike" Northcutt and E. P. Doom, all of San Diego. They had just unloaded their equipment from the car and Spike wanted to know where their drinking water was since the water in the big container was for the dogs. True hunters are these men, for the dogs came first.

Hours later we met our hunters at the clubhouse only this time they had pheasants and chukar partridges they had shot. Man and dog looked pleased with their ability, and it's pheasant for dinner on Sunday at all three homes.

tened the better the stories got, and be he a fisherman or a hunter, many tall tales flowed around the table and a number of cups of coffee got cold.

All in all, for a man who is a hunter, this is the place to go and relax in a sport made for the outdoor type of person.

It was afternoon, we shot our last photo, spoke with the last of the hunters and started home. But just about a mile down the road we saw a cafe, "Burchett's Stagecoach Inn," so we again stopped and there we enjoyed not only a good meal but a long talk with Bob and Evalene, the owners.

If anyone wants to see our escort of the day, Cleo Rhoads, on his day off, we know just where to locate him, at Jack Reed's Royal Ring Neck Shooting Club getting his quota of pheasant and chukar partridge. ■

WATER

Thousands of persons lined the San Jacinto River bridge near the Sportsman Lodge the entire day Sunday, the second, waiting for the expected flow.

It wasn't until 6:30 p.m. that the first trickle of water flowed beneath the bridge. Prior to the water arriving at that point, people were walking on the dry riverbed bottom, motorcyclists were running their cycles up and down the embankment, and cars were stopped all along the roadside. A few people from out of state did not know what the excitement was all about, but were soon informed and many, caught by the enthusiasm of the crowd, stayed and they too waited for the water.

It was hard to judge the amount of people who had come to the event but estimates have it that there were about 10,000. At the same time the State Park counter registered over 5,000 passing through the entrance gate.

Among the first in the water when it finally reached the San Jacinto Bridge, was Lou Goulart and Jeannie Harrison in a plastic boat.

Rollie Brown, Buzz Henes and Tex Janice went into the water in a Mercury out board late Sunday; Freddy Stokes in his 75 horse power Scott; T. C. Morris was the first to water ski. And in the town of Perris, Steele Rawlins set his Crest Craft into the water which was flowing down the channel.

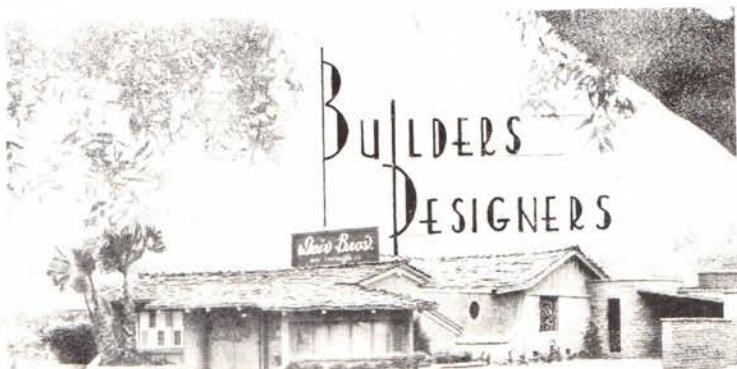

Another first was that Lou Goulart and his charming passenger of the plastic boat were the first to capsize in the water. This proved it was not only wet, but cold.

Nevertheless, the local Elsinorites had fun.

Even the Elsinore Union High School students enjoyed the water, much to the dismay of teachers and parents.

Approximately sixty of them deserted the school after the first period on Monday and being typical teenagers, ventured to the channel and the water. Some fell in, some waded on the shore and a new pickup truck became lodged in the mud and slowly filled with water. Even though proper school (and parental) punishment was administered, the kids felt it was worth it, for some of them had never seen so much as a drop of water in the lake.

The water is causing a new outlook on life for the people in Elsinore—the original pessimists are now the crop of optimists and the original optimists are even more superior.

Many remarks were heard from the various people who were waiting for the water. One lady, who had apparently been waiting for some time to see the water flow under the bridge turned to Roger Mayhall and remarked "I wonder when the water will get here. I've been waiting for over three hours."

In turn he replied, "Miss, be patient, I've been waiting over twelve years."

Local residents talked about the changes the water would make for the town, and how throngs of people would be here to boat, swim and water ski. Some residents, although enthralled with the water, weren't certain how they will take a batch of newcomers to the town, for the serenity and quietness will be gone, this is a certainty. Mixed emotions always follow an event such as this.

This is how the first flow of water looked as it began down the river. Many people walked ahead of the first flow.

The business people are selling more and more of the supplies they have on the shelf; restaurants are so crowded that during the past weekends, some have had to close just to clean up for the next rush of customers and the grocery stores have sold out of bread, lunch meats and other foods. Bars and cocktail lounges have tapped more kegs of beer in the past month, then they did in the last five months.

Yes, Elsinore is once more coming to life. Property sales are booming and construction is at an all-time high. Real estate offices are springing up all around the lake and the price for a single lot has not doubled or tripled, but in some cases quadrupled and people are buying.

Lake Elsinore is the talk from one end of California to the other, and when it is ready for use, about the

In the evening when the balmy breeze blows down over the water and the lights from either side of the lake reflect from its surface, many of the long-time residents, like myself

Fred Stokes got his wish, he was first in the water with his boat. Beside him, center, is T. C. Morris, the first water skier and our one and only Lou Goulart, he not only had the first plastic boat in the water but was the first to feel its wetness when he capsized.

remember the days of the boating, and of the showboat, the swimming, and evenings when the camp fires, surrounded by campers, burnt along its shore.

The stories of the sea serpent, and the mysterious springs, the crippled lady who washed in the water daily and at the end of a month, walked up the hill home.

Elsinore, and its beautiful lake have quite a history, and now history is being made again, with the flow of water into its once dry lake bottom.

The Laguna Revue and its staff would like to take this means to thank each and every person for the part he or she played in getting water into the Lake and above all we thank God for this added gift.

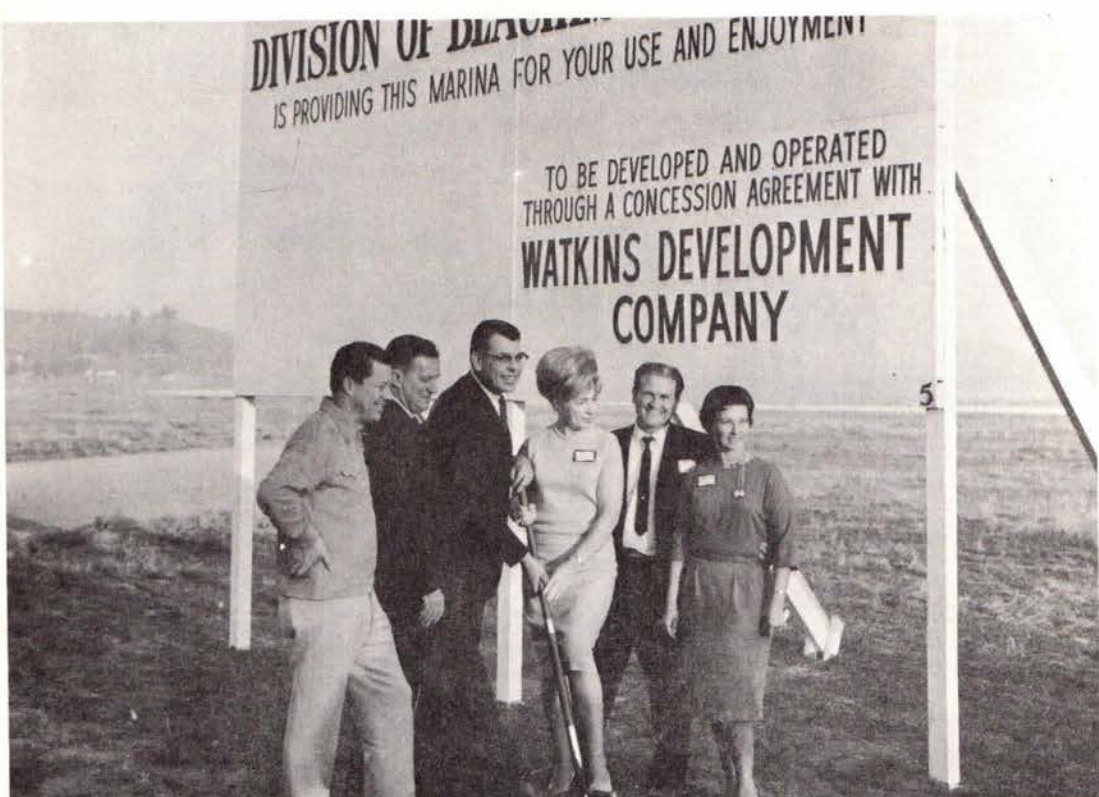

The little gem in the above photo is a Crest Craft, belonging to Steele Rawlins of Perris. The location—the channel near Perris. Getting the boat in the water was something, but getting it out is another story.

February 9 . . . One week after the water started to flow into the lake. Above we have LoVae Pray, Miss Elsinore, wearing her beautiful crown of office. Jim Francisco is the owner of the boat that LoVae is standing in and it bears the name "Miss Elsinore." She is not only the "Miss of Elsinore" but a member of the Court of Queen Scheherazade of Riverside County Fair and National Date Festival. In the background is a view of the lake and the north shore.

Work on Marina progresses

Dozers and earthmoving equipment can be seen moving at a rapid pace as work on the huge marina commences.

This marina, being built by Watkins Development Co., Inc., is located on the west portion of the lake to the south, just off Riverside Drive, and is one of the five marinas being requested by the State Division of Beaches and Parks.

Jess Watkins and Jerry Stanley, partners in the company, had their plans for the marina accepted by the state and George T. Nowak of Los Angeles did the architectural work.

In the near future visitors to Elsinore will not only see and use the marina but there will be space for berthing over 600 boats and parking space for 600 car and boat trailer combinations and in addition to that, room for 400 cars.

The docks and ramps, which will be constructed, will be of fiber glass and will rise and fall and be stabilized with the level of the water. A hydraulic lift for the automatic launching of boats is also in the plans.

To the rear of the boat docking will be space for boat sales and marine supplies as well as an area for repairs, a station for boat refueling.

Also in the plans is a drive-in cafe for boats. Each of the concessionaires will pay a portion of his revenue to the state for the use of the lake and that money will also be used to help repay the loan from the state for the purchase of the water, which is still flowing into the lake.

TEACHER OF THE MONTH

We are very happy to name Mr. Fred O. Jeffries as teacher of the month. Mr. Jeffries was born in Indiana where he received his education in history, education, and law. He holds degrees in these subjects from Indiana State, Indiana University, and Colorado State College. He has taught in the high schools of Indiana, at Chaffey College, and the University of Denver. He also practiced law in Indiana and Colorado for many years, and served a term as judge of the juvenile court at Terre Haute, Virgo County, Indiana.

Mr. Jeffries is now retired from the public schools of California. He now finds great satisfaction in teaching Government and History classes here at ENMS.

For many years Mr. Jeffries has spent his vacation periods visiting historical shrines in the United States and Canada. Last summer Mr. Jeffries visited Canada and the irrigation projects on the Columbia River. Mr. Jeffries has visited all of the Lincoln shrines in America, most of the battlefields of the Civil and Revolutionary Wars, and has spent considerable time in Washington D. C., observing the operations of government.

His hobby is reading the

BASKETBALL

The ENMS Basketball squad came through the season with poor showing. Out of seven games they have won only two of them and these were the games with Webb and Moreno.

This was due mainly because of "only one starting Senior, and he was Gary Sawdy," states Coach McClintock. The rest of the team are in lower grades and were quite inexperienced in this particular sport.

On the offensive side, Elmer Tilson was high point man for the team and on the defensive Tome Stephenson has shown himself to be quite good.

The only chance the team has to regain the good name of the school is the Sherman Institute game scheduled for the 27th of this month and the Hemet game to be played on the 18th.

May luck be with them.

many biographies written about Lincoln, and reading literature pertaining to Political Science, History, Government, and Law. Mr. Jeffries says that the happiest years of his life have been spent in the pursuit of a better understanding of these subjects. ■

New Teachers

Since the last issue of the Admiral, the Elsinore Naval and Military School has gained two new teachers on its staff. They arrived just in time to start the new semester.

Mr. Hugh McCaril, from San Pedro and a resident of Los Angeles County all his life, did his under graduate work at the University of Oregon and there secured a major in Psychology. From there he went to Los Angeles State College to gain a major in Education. He is now teaching book-keeping, typing, and mechanical drawing. His main outside interests lie in stamp collecting.

Mr. Santiago Urquiola

Mr. Santiago Urquiola, our new Spanish teacher, came to us from La Paz, Bolivia. He graduated from the American Institution where he majored in Education. He is teaching all of the Spanish classes here at ENMS very well. In his spare time he likes to play tennis and chess. ■

A topic of interest was brought to the attention of the members of the International Club in the January meeting when Alan Curtis and Ted Manjoras gave reports on their success in visiting pen pals in foreign countries. Members that signed up for the pen pal project were Cadets Curtis, Tilson, Gorman, Carpenter, Manjoras, Lewsader, Wray, Williams, Jim Delbridge, Vazquez, Hernandez, Andy Smith, Parkhurst, O'Connor, Vic Albano, Cairncross, and Swart. Following up this interest a speech was given by Cadet Carpenter about the VFW Essay Contest in the February meeting which was held on February 14th in the school library. Speeches were also made by Cadet Clem about the Student Exchange Program, while Andy Smith talked on the origin of St. Valentine's Day.

Included were musical numbers by Cadets Bill Barrick, a guest of the club, and Wayne Swart sang a solo "Little Darlin." Also Mr. Urquiola, the new Spanish teacher from Bolivia gave a talk on his country. Mr. Sewell, our Principal, was also our guest and gave concluding remarks. ■

Valentine's Day

By J. Clem and D. Williams

Valentine's Day went over with a big bang in the senior school at ENMS when everyone received Valentines in their cute little decorated boxes.

Cadets spent weeks and weeks decorating their fatigue hats with flowers, little birdies, pink cupids, red hearts and ribbon to look like the traditional Valentine Mail Boxes everyone was so familiar with and are so dear to their little hearts.

When Valentine's Day broke with the singing of birds and the scent of sweet smelling flowers, cadets ran outside to look and see if their friends had secretly put their gaily decorated letters in their sweet fatigue hats set outside the door.

Everyone was so very happy and was singing the appropriate songs as they spent the rest of the day opening Valentines and thanking all of their good friends that had sent them one. Even the officers and some of the Non-Coms joined in the fun by singing and dancing "Ring Around the Rosy" accompanied by Lt. Terry Barton on the accordion.

Later in the day the students were entertained by cadets Bill Howard, Paul Coronel, Mike Patte, Dale Jackson and Lt. Mark Koeckritz doing the "Dance of the Buttercups." Also James Camhi and Alan Spindel sang and danced to selected folk songs.

Refreshments were served by Larry Parkhurst, who passed Wampum Corn Chips in the shape of little hearts, topped with teepee shaped candy, to the group.

ALUMNI NOTES

Interesting bits of information were gleamed from visits of former students and greetings during the past weeks, assuring us of their continued efforts in furthering their education and their interest in the Elsinore Naval and Military School.

Visiting on the campus and at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Flyte were Richard Oliver, '59 with his wife and little son Keith. They are living in San Diego and both will continue their college work. Robert Turner of Pasadena, who was enrolled at Washington State, has had to take a year off to earn money to finance his college expenses for next year. Bob is still interested in sports and majoring in Physical Education. Other callers were Neil King, '58 with a new bride from Providence, Rhode Island. Neil has finished his military service (Navy) and is now living in Los Angeles and employed by Southern California Edison.

Then he put on his genuine Indian costume and danced a real live Indian dance. Suddenly it began to rain which broke up the ceremony. No one knows exactly what happened but we have a sneaking suspicion that Larry goofed and did the wrong dance.

The day officially ended with Keith Bogart, Terry McCarty, Tom Kornell and John Pollack giving their version of massed patty cake and the Rice-Patty Stomp.

Speaking of Rice, our mother-son tea will feature Gary Rice lecturing on "Many of My Numerous Conquests of Western Europe During World War I and II." ■

Ground breaking ceremonies for the Machado Street School were held on Monday, February 17 and by the first of September, when school convenes from summer vacation, the dedication ceremonies should be held.

This undertaking would not have been possible had not the voters in the Elsinore Unified School District not had a two-thirds majority at the March 5, 1963 bond election that made the funds available.

When the school is complete it will contain eighteen classrooms, library, two kindergarten rooms, a multi-purpose room and office.

Work is also being done at the Wildomar School and at the Elsinore Elementary School. ■

Just Think Brother!!

Man comes into the world without his consent and leaves it against his will. During his stay on earth, his time is spent in one continuous round of contraries and misunderstandings. In his infancy he is an angel; in his boyhood he is a devil; in his manhood he is everything from a skunk or a snake, on up. If he is a poor man, he is a poor manager and has no sense; if he is rich, he is dishonest, but considered smart; if he is in politics, he is a grafter and crook; if he is out of politics, you can't place him and he is an undesirable citizen. If he goes to church he is a hypocrite; if he stays away from church he is a sinner; if he is generous and subscribes to charitable institutions, he does it for show; if he doesn't he is stingy and a "tight-wad."

When he first comes into the world, everybody wants to kiss him; before he goes out, they all want to kick him, and generally do. If he dies young, there was a great future before him; if he lives to a ripe old age and is rich, he is in the way; and if he is poor, nobody wants him.

Life is a queer proposition after all — but you can guard against most of its inconsistencies by taking a and business really improved, or so I thought.

It all began last month, when I noticed that the people in my waiting room were not patient patients and then I saw scuff marks on my hardwood floor where they shuffled their feet while sitting.

I talked the problem over with Andy, my genius, and he suggested we find out how other business men solve this impatience problem.

I walked to town and stopped in at the barbers and there I saw people sitting quietly, kids and all, reading—the Revue.

That did it, into Mayhall Print Shop home of La Laguna Revue I went and ordered a subscription to be sent to the office.

A week past, and I had the most patient patients in the world, and more of them than ever (some came just to read the magazine).

But it didn't help much, for the scuff marks returned, and so did my impatient patients.

What had happened? Well, it seems that Andy, my genius, took the Revue home so he could read it himself. I finally solved the problem. . . . I have my own La Laguna Revue sales stand, and on the side sell magazines. Good business too.

doff Jewelry Store. It was May of 1961 that she purchased the property on Railroad Avenue and moved the business.

Sally employs two girls to help with the engraving and one man who does the cutting of the plastic material for the signs.

In the beginning, she only did the small badges with glued on pins, then the idea of riveting the pins, turned into a reality and she was among the first to make pins with rivets. From the pins she ventured into desk signs and now has such a variety that it takes a four-page booklet to list the various designs.

Recently she decided to become a trophy dealer and now can supply organizations and businesses with the standard plaques and trophies, and all types of specialty items in that field.

Elsinore's Sally Glick is quite a woman, one that will bear watching, for you never can tell about these women and the ideas they'll come up with. ■
