Elsinore West Marina now open to public

Above is the launching area. The small harbor is one of the finest places to set your boat in the water and after you get in, attach the ropes, add a couple of skiers and you're once more off on Lake Elsinore, from Elsinore West. This marina is owned by Jerry Stanley.

Beneath the wooden barricade is the new House of Style, which will be open to the public some time in September. Location: between 3rd and 4th on D Street, Perris.

House of Style on the move

The House of Style Home Furnishings and its affiliate store, House of Style Custom Color, will move both Perris locations as soon as the new location at 332-334 D Street is remodeled, according to Don Snyder, proprietor.

The furniture division, presently located at 234 D

Street, will have 4,000 square feet of floor space, which is almost double the present accommodations and the new paint store, now at 319 D Street, will provide 1000 square feet of merchandising room.

Don's story on how he first became interested in this line of work was told in the June, 1964 issue of La Laguna Revue.

Tentative date for the store's opening is set for the middle of September. ■

Emily M. Parker plans retirement

Mrs. Emily M. Parker, 4-H Home Advisor of Riverside County, is planning to retire from active service the first of this month after nineteen years of service to 4-H in Riverside County.

An Aloha party will be held on August 2 at the Faculty Club Auditorium, University of California, Riverside from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. and is going to be "open house" with the Hawaiian theme.

Put August 2 on your calendar now, so that you can be certain to attend the party honoring this lady who has dedicated so much of her time to 4-H. ■

Ernie Yates and Kathryn Pease now School Boards Heads

Earnest Yates was elected president of the Elsinore Union High School District Board of Trustees at the annual organization meeting.

Serving with him will be Mrs. Louise Munoa of Temecula as vice president, Clarence McLaughlin of Elsinore, clerk, George Blake of Murrieta and Dr. Jack McDowell of Elsinore will serve as members of the board.

Newly elected president of the Elsinore Union School Board was Mrs. Kathryn Pease. Serving with her as vice president will be Thomas Wilks, Jr. and Elmer Ebersole as clerk.

Gordon Harrison, superintendent of both school districts, was named secretary to both boards of trustees. ■

Julian to display weeds

The time has come to take out your road maps, locate the community of Julian and go to see the Fourth Annual Weed Show that will be held from August 22 through September 7. The displays can be seen between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. at the Julian Town Hall and Community Hall.

Presenting this unusual type of show is the Julian Chamber of Commerce and an array of local dried weeds and pods, done in arrangement form will be the center of attraction.

In conjunction with the Weed Show there will be a display of authentic Indian handmade jewelry and an Art Mart of paintings, ceramics and sculpture work by thirty-five local artists.

Everyone should take time out to see that weeds aren't necessarily a nuisance, but in this case a thing of beauty. Go to the Julian Weed Show, and learn to live with your weeds. ■

The Four Horsemen of the Valleys

Meet the four men who will be dictating policy for the 1964-65 term of office for the Rotary Clubs and the Lions Clubs of Elsinore and Perris.

T. C. Richards
Lions Club of Perris

First, we have T. C. Richards, in the far right-hand corner for the Lions Club of Perris.

T. C. is field and construction superintendent for Big Skyland Company and J. C. Associates.

The Lions Club holds its meetings on the second and fourth Tuesday of each month at the Statler Youth Center at 7 p.m.

Morgan (Dell) Davis
Rotary Club of Perris

Morgan M. Davis, better known to all as Dell, is the newly installed president of the Rotary Club of Perris. Dell is classed as a potato and cattle man, but keep an eye on him for he is quite a financier also.

The meetings are held at the Statler Youth Center at 12:10 every Thursday.

Larry Cartier
Rotary Club of Elsinore

Elsinore boasts Larry Cartier as headman of the Rotary Club. Larry is owner-operator of Elsinore Ready-Mix on Lakeshore Drive and is very active in the Elsinore Chamber of Commerce. He helps with the baseball clubs in the Valley and much of his handiwork is seen on the construction end of the new ball park.

The meetings are Friday, 12:10 at the Elsinore Wreck Center.

Top-dog of the Lions Club of Elsinore is none other than Pat Luck. The annual demotion night for this club was held during the month of June at the Dunes. Pat was formally installed at this time.

He is not only top dog of the Lions for this year, but is the owner-operator of Pat Luck's Lakeside Tire Service on Graham Avenue in Elsinore and Hemet Tire Service in Hemet.

Lions of Elsinore roar the second and fourth Tuesday of the month, 7 p.m. at the Wreck Center on Graham Avenue.

Big things are expected of these four men, and their publicity heads. Each organization supports worthy causes. The Lions are well known for their eye-care program and blood donations. Rotary — baseball sponsorship and—in Perris, the building of public restrooms at the Youth Center.

By the end of this term we'll know who had the biggest push, for La Laguna Revue is going to run a contest between these four men and the one who turns in the most news, accomplishes the most in their respective field, can boast of the largest attendance and such as that will be taken out for the finest, most tender steak dinner by the editor...s husband.

Good luck fellows, and may the four of you have your club's name in headlines for the ensuing year.

Annexation . . . the if of Elsinore

The first hurdle of the possible annexation of a large portion of lake area property to the City of Elsinore was overcome when the County Boundary Commission established the boundaries for the proposed annexation and they were adopted by the local Agency Formation Commission of Riverside County.

The property included in this much-discussed annexation includes the south side of Lake Elsinore to the mountains; on the west to take in property near the former Everett Grubb place; on the north of the lake around the city and on the east it would include Sedco Hills and east of Corydon Road to Bryant.

The reason for taking the area into Elsinore is that the City of Elsinore is the only incorporated entity and the plan is to annex the entire area to the city, thus making it one large city.

The proposal for the annexation of this territory came about through the efforts of the Currie Engineering Company of San Bernardino, who were hired by the Unified Community Citizens' Committee to make a study of the sewage disposal problem of the entire lake area. Currie Company submitted six plans and drawings on sewers and Plan 5 was selected and sent to the Boundary Committee.

This proposal to unite the entire area into one city appears to be the greatest step forward since the water in Lake Elsinore.

All residents of the community should take an active part in this proposed annexation, for it concerns each and every person. Do not wait until this issue is placed on a ballot for a yes or no vote and then wonder what it is all about.

When it concerns your town, your community, get out, ask questions, get interested. The annexation means more than just sewers, it means a right to vote in the city elections, a chance to endorse candidates for the council, planning commission and other public offices.

It means you will have a right to speak in city affairs at last.

Get in the know—

The next step for this great move forward will be to circulate petitions to get signatures of 25 per cent of the voters asking for an election of the annexation proposal.

If this annexation does get past the "if," "and," and "but" stage Elsinore will once more have an unusual situation under its "belt" for the territory to be annexed is larger than the annexing city.

In England, a man is guilty of a crime until he proves himself innocent. In America, a man is innocent of a crime until . . . the following morning when the newspapers come out.

New Chamber of Commerce secretary

Mrs. Florence I. Richards is the new secretary of the Lake Elsinore Valley Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Richards succeeds Mrs. Beverly Lepper, who left Elsinore to make her home in Riverside.

Florence, as she is known to her many friends, came to Lake Elsinore Valley in 1947, and was engaged in the real estate business with her late husband, C. W. Richards, on Grand Avenue.

After Mr. Richards' death she was associated with several real estate firms in the area and for ten years was private secretary to the author, Upton Sinclair. She is a graduate of Janesville High School and Southern Wisconsin Business College in Janesville. Before moving to California she held several secretarial positions. During the second World War she was Accountability Clerk on one of the large ration boards in the Los Angeles area.

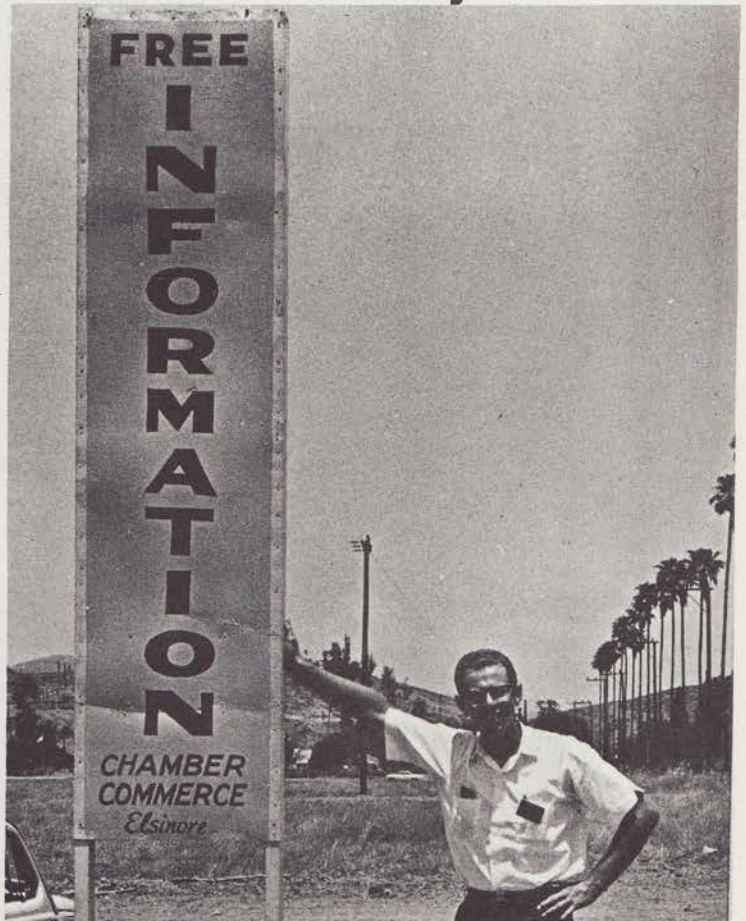

Since coming to the Valley she has been active in community work. Current-

This is the sign that greets you as you drive on Riverside Drive toward either marina. And giving you the best in smiles is one member of the chamber who volunteered his services to give "Information to Tourists," Bob Williams.

Information please

The Elsinore Chamber of Commerce under the able leadership of its president, Roger Mayhall and his hard-working board of directors are taking "giant" steps forward to promote Elsinore and its Valley.

Recently an information booth was set up on the northwest corner of Riverside Drive and Joy Street. This booth is for visitors, residents and anyone else who may desire information on any facet of the area. Maps, brochures and other literature is available just for the asking.

The booth is being manned by chamber members and all who can help for one or two hours on either Saturday or Sunday are urged to call the Chamber office and give your name and the time you will be able to donate to this worthy cause.

Remember, you are the chamber. ■

Housewarming held for long-time residents

The Anthony Junkleys, who recently moved into their newly constructed home at Robin Hood Oaks, were guests of honor at a housewarming given in their honor by the Past Matrons of the Order of Eastern Star of Elsinore.

Since it was also Mrs. Junkley's birthday, the group combined the housewarming with a birthday party and a dual celebration was held.

Joining the Junkleys were the senior Ed Misners, the To mElders, Jim Basigers, Lloyd Hales, Albert Horns, John DiGiacomos and the Garey Carrs. (Mr. Carr is the creator and writer of the witty Center Aisle Right printed monthly in La Laguna Revue.)

Others attending were Gertrude Flyte, Mary Moses, Jeannie Huddleston, Thelma Laster, Ester Johnson, Pearl Beach, Ora Lyon, Grace Baumgardner, Louise Felber, Maria Shaw, Eileen Fogelman, Della Clark and Marjorie Carr.

The members of the Star supplied the refreshments for the event with Mrs. Misner and Mrs. Elder in charge.

The Junkleys have lived in Elsinore for many years, their former home was in Country Club Heights, but is now being used by Jack Williams for his boys' home — Lakeside Lodge.

Photos of the Country Club Heights Junkley home appeared in the December, 1961 issue of La Laguna Revue. How many of you readers still have that one? The second ever published. ■

TIME OUT FOR A BIRTHDAY

A surprise birthday party was held for busy Jess Watkins, president of Watkins Development Company at the Lake Elsinore State Park recently.

The party was given by employees of the company and their sentiments were expressed on a beautifully decorated cake bearing the inscription "Happy Birthday to a Great Boss." The cake was baked and decorated by Effie Foley and was a replica of Lake Elsinore State Park Marina developed by Jess.

DOWN THE DIRT ROAD . . .

To DePalma's Italian Village

San Francisco has its wharfs; Los Angeles, Chinatown, but Alberhill has Joe DePalma's Italian Village and you don't have to drive very far to be in the center of Little Italy, with the Old-World flavor.

Location: Highway 71, on the Elsinore-Corona road.

Time: Everyday, except Monday.

Setting: Italian, from wine cellar to blacksmith shop.

Cast: Joe DePalma and his wife, Allyne.

Recently, Rubie and myself had the distinct pleasure of visiting at this wonderful village, unhindered by other guests, unhurried and under no pressure, for the day was Monday, and DePalma's Italian Village was closed to the general public, but all of the doors were open for us and we made a most leisurely tour of the entire area, without the aid of a guide, and saw for ourselves the effect Joe DePalma, born in Vineland, New Jersey, was trying to achieve—and did.

The entire village is one of distinct sentiment and the personality of the owner is reflected in every crook and corner of the establishment.

Joe built his place on

A few readers may recognize the bars of this miniature jail, for they at one time adorned the cell of the Corona City Jail.

This rustic building houses the Cantina and Pizzeria on the bottom and the steps to the right of the photo lead to the newly opened gift shop.

memories, his and others. For instance, when Joe's grandfather, for whom he was named, came over from Italy to Vineland he brought the tools of his shoemaker's trade. Joe moved the interior of his grandfather's shop to the village and the entire boot and shoe shop is set up in a building on the village grounds.

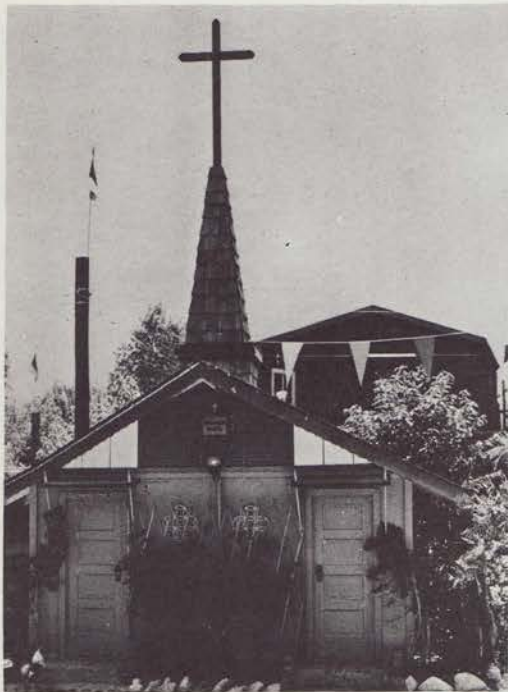

In Vineland was a DePalma Street, named for his grandfather, and Joe brought the original DePalma Street sign from that town and installed it on the main street of the village, so now there is a DePalma Street at the village and a like street in Vineland.

As Rubie and I walked up the wooden sidewalk one of the first things we saw were the lakes, which adjoin the restaurant and where a variety of fish are available if you like fishing. Joe raises his own quail and pheasant, which are free to roam the gardens.

Our first stop was the Cantina and Pizzeria. As we entered down the steps, we first noticed the sawdust on the floor, then an old-fashioned style bar and stools and on the back wall a mural of a young lady dressed in the era of the gay days. On that same wall is a sign that reads, "You came to eat Italian, why not drink Italian?"

We left there and walked over the bridge to the miniature post office, not a government established one, but a Joe DePalma convenience. In this small office there are postal cards with photos of the Village and these may be had by the customers at no charge and after addressing them, dropped into the letterbox and Joe mails them at his own expense.

One of the many points of interest at DePalma's are the religious statues, like the one in the above photo. It is made of Carrara marble, same as used in the work of Michelangelo. It is 5 feet tall, weighs 1100 pounds and was made in Italy and shipped to Joe.

Next to the post office is a chapel, again miniature, named "The Holy Trinity" after a church in Naples, Italy. A sign on the inside of this chapel reads, "This Shrine is dedicated to St. Joseph and the Holy Family. As our little way of giving thanks for all the blessings that we have received. The DePalma Family." In this chapel are the statues of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, St. Joseph and the Blessed Virgin Mary.

We left the lovely chapel, and went to the newly opened gift shop. There we saw the old-time glass candy jars, Italian glassware and hundreds of the most lovely gift ideas ever. Again, everything was unusual.

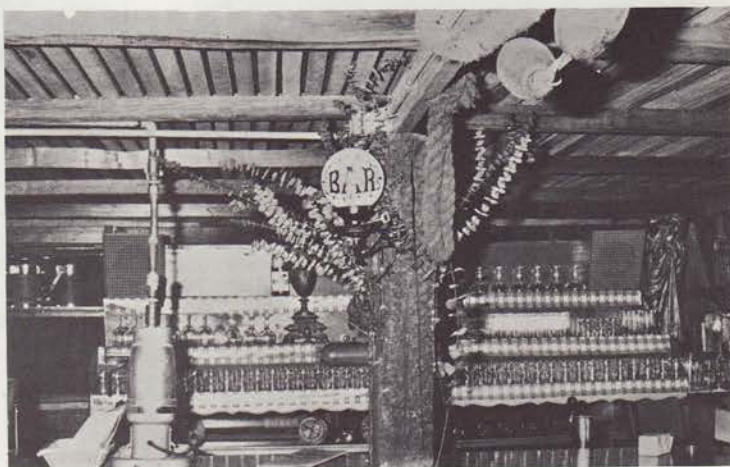

Down the gift shop steps and out to the jail-house, with its metal bed, chalk-marked walls and empty bottles on the floor.

We then toured the restaurant, with its five dining rooms and there we saw the tables adorned with the Italian red and white checked tablecloths, and along the walls, and in the doorways, many interesting items for one to look at while they dine. If you plan a hurried meal, do not go to DePalma's for this is more than just an ordinary restaurant. It is a miniature Italian Village complete with wine cellar, little theater, intimate, informal dining rooms and an outdoor Italian courtyard for dining.

Like Rubie and I, a lot of people look for a small, off-beat restaurant down a side street, off the main drag, away from the glare and tinsel of everyday living, but with a lot of homey, quiet atmosphere. A place where the food is rich, heavy, full-flavored and informality is the rule.

At the gate is a sentry box, with the replica of a sentry inside and a gate arm with a large sign which reads, "You are leaving Alberhill, California, U. S. A. Welcome to DePalma's Italian Village, Little Italy."

Joe DePalma has achieved all of this and more, and no published article can give you the wonderful feeling you get as you enter the gates to this Village—other than by going there yourself.

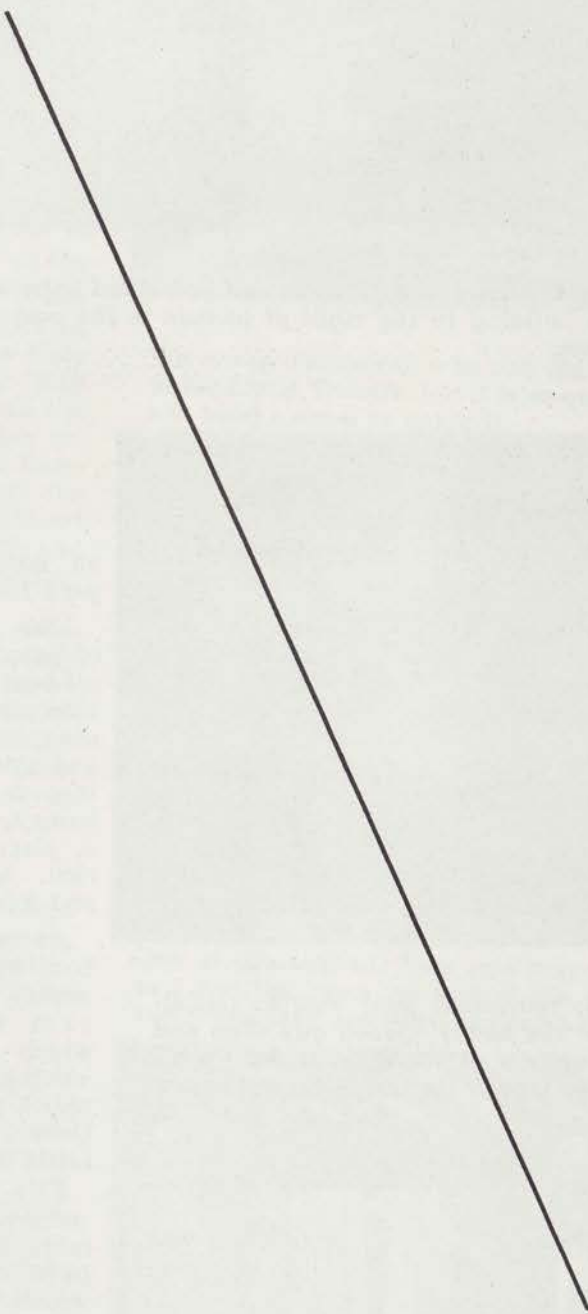

Be certain to look for the miscellaneous signs on the walls, embedded in the cement walks and on the statues for they all add to the decor.

POTATO FESTIVAL

Here and gone — but not forgotten

Everytown, U. S. A., has a festival of sorts, and Perris, California, U. S. A., proudly stands up and has its Potato Festival, sponsored annually by the Lions Club of Perris.

The festival for 1964 was held on July 23 through July 26 and things happen so fast that there never was a dull moment.

The Rotarians staged one of their best in the pancake breakfast line, which was again held at Statler Youth Center. Chief cooks and bottlewashers were members of the club and these gentlemen really went all out in the chef department.

Outstanding Woman of the Year

Mrs. Gertrude E. Flyte, who was selected as the outstanding woman of the year by the Elsinore Woman's Club, was reticent about telling why she was selected when interviewed for this article. "I have not been able to attend many meetings because of my work at the Military School," Mrs. Flyte stated, "nor could I serve on luncheon committees and other routine matters but I have served as their chairman of the committees on Public Education and International Affairs for the past three years."

Mrs. Flyte said that the reporting of these projects together with the great amount of publicity helped to bring many awards to the Elsinore Club at District and State Conventions. Articles on the Literacy Project sponsored by the Elsinore Woman's Club have appeared in local, state, and national magazines.

Mrs. Flyte said she helped organize and served as the first president of the Elsinore Valley Literacy Council and for two years as the Director of the Literacy Center which is held in the Woman's clubroom every Thursday evening from 7 to 9 during the school year. At present she serves as the Director of Public Relations. In that capacity she has given many talks over the county to help extend the work to other communities.

When asked what her educational and international interests had been she said, "They have been my life. I have been a rural school teacher, an elementary teacher, a high school teacher, and have done some special college teaching in the arena of adult education. I have been an elementary principal, high school principal, county superintendent of schools, and a state supervisor of adult education. For the past nine years I have been teaching English and Latin at the Military School and loving it."

She said that in the area of international relations she has served as local, council, state, district, and national chairman of the International Committees of PTA and has promised to serve again in that capacity for the Elsinore Elementary PTA this year as well as International Affairs Chairman for the Woman's Club and Public Education Chairman for De Anza District Woman's Clubs.

When asked about her International Club at the Military School, Mrs. Flyte said, "That is my pride and joy. Working with these boys from other lands and hearing them exchange information on their several countries has been international education at its best. They have helped me make a good report for my Woman's Club as an outstanding example of an International Project."

"They have helped me with the Literacy project by teaching classes to the Spanish-American students and by giving talks on the Woman's Club Literacy-CARE Projects as they operate in Mexico and Guatemala. They have sung their native songs and shared items of exhibit from their homelands."

When asked if she had any new ideas for a club project this year, she said she hoped to try an International Folk Festival in which people of other lands living in the community might share their music, dances, art treasures, and special foods as an adventure in understanding.

The Fighting City Fathers

By DOLORES MAYHALL

"Competition made the United States, but after Monday, July 13th's Council meeting in the City Hall of Elsinore, I do believe that if competition makes anything great, Elsinore will be among the greatest, for our City Fathers really compete. For what, I do not know. There can only be one mayor or chairman of the board, and we have Tom Bartlett, the other four are councilmen, no more no less.

The meeting began a bit different than other meetings. There were policemen placed in strategic positions, one at the foot of the stairs and one at the top. This was to make certain that only 32 persons, (that's all the meeting room holds in the audience field) went up the stairs to the council chambers. The minute the seats were filled, no one else was allowed in the chamber room.

Could it be because of a fire law or something, since the room is on the second story of the city hall and there is only one narrow staircase in or out?

There might be a fire escape, but I have not seen it.

Anyhow, the thirty-two people were seated, the council, city attorney, city manager, and city clerk took their places at the round table. Invocation, Flag salute and minutes dispensed with, the meeting proceeded.

First came a request from Ruth Saltee Scott to carry on her work as a physical therapist at her home at 215 North Silver Street. She is presently operating at the Elsinore Hot Springs.

The planning commission okayed the idea, and the city council almost did when Attorney Harry M. Dougherty brought up an excellent point to the council, that of taking the matter under advisement to study the impact such a variance could give to the development of the city. He asked if the council intended to throw the residential part of the city open to other businesses which might want a similar variance.

This matter was tabled, for somewhere along the way, the city has a master zoning plan and one variance could lead to many, many more.

New zoning fee

Next on the agenda, a recommendation from the planning commission that the city adopt a higher fee for requested zone changes.

The present fee is $5.00, which does not begin to cover the expense incurred in granting variances or zone changes. Expenses include legal advertising, posting of the property and notifying other property owners of the necessary public hearings.

Florene Marshall, city clerk and City Attorney Dougherty, roughly estimated that it costs the city more than $100 every time a variance is granted.

The planning commission suggested $125 for the first lot, plus $2 for each additional lot. The fee, if accepted, is still lower than that charged by surrounding towns.

The council decided to study the subject before rendering a decision.

Off-street parking

Jay Guler, city manager, brought up the subject of off-street parking, which would be located near Sulphur to Limited streets on property belonging to Santa Fe.

If the Santa Fe Railroad would give right of use, forty-three cars could be safely parked in the area. All work getting the lots in order could be done by city crews, except for the black top work.

This discussion went along pretty good, until one of the councilmen mentioned parking meters. After much discussion, that thought went by the wind, for the object of such a lot is to give the businessmen a place to park their cars, so that customers could park on the main streets of town.

As yet, Elsinore has no municipal parking area and the people who work in town have a definite parking problem.

Bed tax

Then the men of the council got to the "Bed-tax" ordinance, which imposes a tax upon transient occupancy and provides for its collection.

In other words, if one stays at a hotel or motel or in any place providing overnight accommodations, a four per cent tax will be charged, and the owners of these establishments then pay the monies collected to the city.

This is a city tax and will be filed under the heading of "Uniform Transient Occupancy Tax Ordinance of the City of Elsinore." The ordinance was passed and goes into effect on January 1, 1965.

Ex-Chief, 69 or 70

It was then that the big moment arrived at the meeting. For most everyone there had come to hear the decision the council would render concerning the reinstatement of former police chief, Walter C. Bittle.

It began at the June 8 meeting, when the council voted on a resolution which retires employees at the age of 65, except in cases where the council decided to retain them for specified periods thereafter.

It seems that upon the passage of this June 8 resolution, Chief Bittle was informed by letter that his services were no longer necessary, and upon completion of his two weeks' vacation his term of office was terminated.

This did not set well with the chief, nor 697 voters of this city, for at the July 13 meeting, two attempts were made to reinstate the former chief.

Mrs. Rita Burney presented the council a petition, bearing 697 signatures of people who believed the chief should be reinstated. This is when the going got rough, for Mayor Bartlett, continually interrupted Mrs. Burney in what she was attempting to say, and told her to just file them with the city clerk, and he then proceeded on with the meeting completely ignoring the petition and Mrs. Burney.

Now on the table, before the council, was a resolution which was an amendment to the one which retired employees at 65, and it appeared to be specifically for Chief Bittle. This resolution, if passed would have reinstated the chief.

It came time for a vote and on a roll call. Councilman Hilbert Stewart voted "No." Councilman Tom Yarborough and Ed Berry, "yes." The next voter was Councilman Frank Pasquale. Instead of a direct yes or no vote, he chose to make a statement — that Councilman Yarborough had told him, Mr. P. that Chief B was 69 and not 70. He claimed he (Mr. P.) was later informed by another source that Chief B was 70 and not 69.

This led to Mr. P. giving the impression that Mr. Y lied. Mr. Y suggested to Mr. P. that he look up his own information, for Mr. Y was told by someone else that Chief B was 69 and he was only relaying to Mr. P. what he was told.

Soon things got to the stage of "He said, that she said, that he said" and on and on. Voices became tense, tempers short, a few polite names were used and then Mr. P voted — he passed.

Now it was Mayor Bartlett's turn at bat, and he voted a flat "No." But, this was not enough for Mr. Y, he more or less demanded that Mr. P change his pass vote and vote a straight yes or no. Mr. P began on the "you said he was 69." By now the entire audience was sitting on the end of their chairs and finally Mr. P. voted, but only after remarking once more that Mr. Y said he was 69, and for this reason he voted "No."

The amendment went "down the drain." If it had passed it would have kept Chief Bittle in city employ for at least a time.

Quite a mystery

I have attended a goodly amount of the Elsinore Council meetings but always came away perplexed, for I do not understand the procedure followed.

For instance, when does any member of the audience get a chance to discuss with the council any matter on the table.

When the subject of the amendment came up, a motion was made that it be adopted, and it was seconded.

Can't speak now, for there is a motion on the table.

Next, councilman discussion.

Can't speak now, for there is a motion on the table.

Then the vote.

Can't speak now, for the issue has been decided upon and what more is there to say?

After all the business; new, old, planning commission, treasurer and secretary reports and such is taken care of you can't speak now for the meeting is over and you end up talking to yourself. Such a deal a good thing I lost the election in April, I was brought up wrong, for Dad told me there were two sides to every story, and sometimes, both were right, and sometimes both wrong, but that's life.

In my opinion— bad taste

It was somewhere between and betwixt this point that Mr. P. threw the minutes of the 1948 meeting on the table and again I was puzzled, for the petition with 697 names was not listed on the evening's 'agenda, so the mayor did not accept the reading of it.

The minutes Mr. P threw on the table were not on the agenda either, but the mayor accepted the reading of it. The minutes were from 1948, had nothing to do with the present-day, were not worth hearing and upon hearing same and the remarks that followed from Mr. P, directed to Mr. Y., the entire audience, including myself felt that Mr. P had overstepped his boundaries and it was in poor taste that such be permitted to be read.

In my opinion Mr. Pasquale was a mite malicious when he requested those minutes be read.

Before I, myself, would even pick up a stone, I'd sure enough put steel over my glass windows. (And with the luck I have, the stone would bounce off and hit me anyway.)

Meeting adjourned

A motion to adjourn was made and passed but one woman in the audience desired to be heard. She had this desire before the adjournment motion was made. The mayor three times informed her that the meeting was over, but then Mr. P, being quite gentlemanly, requested that she be heard.

She was, after a fashion, but her thoughts were of former police chief Bittle and no one was interested in her opinion.

One lady in the audience, who was earlier in the meeting offended by a remark made by the mayor concerning a certain religious group of people, stood up and said she was tired of the constant bickering and arguing that the members of the council did among themselves and for years she was under the impression that the council were the city fathers, and whoever heard of fathers fighting like these men do in the presence of their so-called "children"

Her point was one I really understood, and fully agreed with.

Well, that's it, folks, I attended a council meeting, and it was a "dandy." Why not turn off the Saturday night fights and see them live, Channel "City Hall" upstairs, the second and fourth Monday of each month, at 7:30 p.m. Come early for a seat. ■

"Extremism in the cause of liberty is no vice. Moderation in the pursuit of justice is no virtue."

—Barry Goldwater

The above excerpt from Senator Barry Goldwater's acceptance speech, delivered at the recent Republican Convention held in San Francisco's Cow Palace, should go down in history among sayings by famous people, regardless of the outcome of the November election.

In the extreme, according to Webster's dictionary, means to the "greatest degree." Therefore I shall be complimented to be called an "extremist" if it alludes to my patriotism for my Country and my respect for the Constitution of the United States.

I have suggested to Senator Goldwater that the above aphorism be printed in quantity in a form which could be hung on the wall or framed for display on a desk. They could be sold at 25 cents a copy and I believe every good Republican and conservative Democrat would buy one or more. Put me down for a dozen.

Too bad the convention had to be marred by that disgraceful demonstration on the part of CORE. Some day the Negroes may realize that they never had a better friend than Senator Goldwater. However every demonstration re-

FATAL ACCIDENT

Louis Edward Nunes Goulart, better known to Elsinore residents as Lou, suffered a fatal skull fracture in a motorcycle accident at the Laguna Drive-In on July 3, 1964. He was 42 years of age and made his home at 113 North Kellogg Street. He was born in Edgartown, Massachusetts on October 31, 1921.

Lou had made a career of the United States Marine Corps, having retired on May 31, 1962 at Camp Pendleton with the rank of Gunnery Sergeant, E-7. The past two years he worked as a school bus driver for the Elsinore School District. In April of this year, he ran as a candidate for the city council of Elsinore.

He leaves his widow, Lucile; two daughters, Kathleen and Patricia; a son, David; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Nunes of Edgartown; three brothers, Albert, Maunel and Roland and two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth F. Costa and Mrs. Eileen Rosa, Jr.

Rosary was said for Lou on Monday, July 6 at St.

Lucile expressed her deep gratitude to her many friends who sent messages of condolence and flowers and to those who joined her and her family at the church services and at the graveside services where Camp Pendleton Marines gave a three-gun salute in Lou's honor.

The City Council of the City of Elsinore at its regular meeting on Monday, July 13, recommended that a letter of condolence be sent to the Goulart family, for Lou was well-known in civic affairs and better known for his work with the young people of the Valley.

Lucile and children will continue to make their home on Kellogg Street and she will stay on as teller at the First National Bank of Elsinore. ■

Sun City celebrates second anniversary

Some idea of the new way of life found in Sun City is being explained here by Mrs. H. A. Buchser (left), first resident home owner, to Mr. and Mrs. Chester L. Lemmon, Monrovia. They visited here for Second Anniversary Celebration. They have purchased a home and plan to spend weekends until they are ready to retire. Mrs. Lemmon is seated in wicker patio swing in one of new models.

Thousands of residents and visitors joined the Del E. Webb Corporation in observing the second anniversary of Sun City with a four-day celebration.

On the entertainment program were the Loping Lads and Lassies of Romoland, the first all-horse 4-H Club in California. This group put on an excellent horse show.

The Diplomats and the Kings Guards presented live music in Town Hall, with comedian Bill Daily acting as master of ceremonies.

Then there were the famous Webb Tones — famous at Sun City, that is. These four gentlemen made their debut at this second anniversary celebration. The now-famous Webb Tones consist of Ralph Harsin, tenor; Dino Serafini, lead; Ernie Bowlus, baritone and Stan Clark, bass. Mr. Webb should be very proud of this group, for not only are they talented singers, but also Webb employees.

This latest model color television set was won by Mr. and Mrs. Eric J. Elzenholm, 26731 Sun City Blvd., at Sun City's Second Anniversary Celebration. They are shown in center with James Forrest, member of the sales staff (left) and Gordon Heath, project manager, receiving $100 extra bonus for filling out questionnaires on all new models.

Residents of this community represent the full range of occupational and professional interests and come from throughout the United States plus several other nations.

Five church groups have purchased sites for places of worship. One church building is near completion and another about to be constructed. A total of seven separate religious groups are currently conducting services at the Town Hall.

On the social side of the register Sun City has the Sun City Woman's Club, which holds the honor of being the largest Woman's Club ever chartered. They have their own, American Legion, World War One Veterans group, Rotary, Lions, High Twelve, Eastern Star and approximately sixty other formal and informal groups, all made up of home owning residents.

The Del Webb Corporation may build the houses, but the people bring them to life and make them homes. Towns are built, but communities are made, and with the combination of the Webb Corporation and people, you have Sun City, U.S.A., one of the fastest growing communities in the vicinity. ■

Johnny James tries out for Olympics

Johnny Eddie James, Jr. who recently tied the world's record in the 100-yard dash at a track meet held at the Perris Union High School, was given the opportunity to go to Brunswick, New Jersey to compete against other 100-yard sprinters for the Olympic team.

This was the report made at the regular meeting of the Perris Valley Chamber of Commerce held at the Kings Inn on July 2, with John Harrison presiding.

Johnny is a June graduate of Perris Union High School and well known for his participation in sports. He worked at a local service station to earn enough money to go for the try-outs but to no avail. Charles Motte was contacted and informed of the problem, he advanced the $250 to get John on his way.

This money, all but $50 of which Charlie is donating, is being repayed to him through the various civic organizations and private individuals. The chamber board voted to contribute $50.

John did go to the try-outs, and he placed Fifth and Sixth, which is quite an honor for Perris.

Street signs

The publisher of the Perris Progress, Ben Minnich, took a staunch stand on the type of street signs the city should consider for installation. Ben stated that the crisscross sign, is for people who walk or ride in a horse and buggy, not for someone driving and trying to find a local street.

He would like to see installed, the type of street sign that can be easily read from a moving vehicle.

Vice-President resigns

Edward J. Sudik, vice president of the Perris Valley Chamber of Commerce, turned in his resignation. Mr. Sudik stated in his letter to the chamber, that due to pressure of business he is unable to hold the office.

His term would have expired in August of 1965, but no appointment was made to fill the vacancy, as four directors' terms expire this month and the ballot will ask that voting members vote for five candidates instead of four, and one of these will complete Ed's term of office.

Maps for city

Ben Minnich reported that the new city maps for Perris were still in the drawing stage.

When complete they will show all usable roads and will be much more accurate than the maps now being used.

He also stated that the Trolley Museum was considering the purchase of two more cars which will have open side seating and will be run on a three-mile stretch of track. This project is still at the planning stage.

Perris Day

Opening day, September 18, has been designated to be Perris Day at the Los Angeles County Fair.

Special recognition will be given the Valley and its area-wide Chamber of Commerce. All Perris residents and chamber members are urged to attend the Fair on that date. ■

Weeklies have new owners

Mr. and Mrs. Harlan C. Gilbertson are now the sole owners of the Lake Elsinore Valley Sun, the Elsinore Leader-Press and the Sun Publishing Co.

Jerry Gilbertson, son of the Harlan C. Gilbertsons, who previously was the owner of the papers, has taken a position as publicity director of the Watkins Development Company.

Jerry and his brother, Jim, came to Elsinore in January of 1960, to take over the Sun, which they purchased from Bennie and Tom Hudson. For several months they published it jointly until Jim and his family moved to Riverside.

Jerry then purchased the Elsinore Leader-Press and building from Betty and Beverly C. James and for awhile, the two papers ran under one masthead. About the first of this year Harlon C. took over as the publisher of the Leader-Press, opened offices on Grand Avenue and resumed separate publications once more. The Leader-Press then served the communities of Alberhill, Lakeland, Wildomar, Murrieta and Temecula.

Harlan C. Gilbertson

On June 4, 1964, Jerry and his wife Kaye, disposed of their interest in both papers and the Sun Publishing Co. to the H. C. Gilbertsons.

According to Mr. Gilbertson the Sun will be publisher earlier in the week and the Leader-Press at the last of the week, calling the latter "The Weekender" as a subhead.

In the meantime, Jim, his wife Florence and their son, David have moved back to Elsinore and he is assisting at the Sun Publishing Company.

Lyle Hodges, idea man for "Top Camper," gets ready to go up the ladder to the sun deck and sleeping area.

"Necessity is the mother of invention," and in the case of one Lyle Hodges of Elsinore, it was more or less a necessity that he build a camper that had the conveniences of home.

Why, because, his wife, like other wives, likes conveniences—and Lyle, like other men, likes camping. So what better idea than to build a camper that has the "conveniences of home."

Lyle designed the "Top Camper" for families and has incorporated some terrific ideas in this newest fashion of travelling homes.

First, a shower, with hot and cold running water; a chemical toilet; three-way lighting — butane, 110 or 12-volt and the top of the camper opens and will sleep four comfortably, as well as inside sleeping. With all of this, there is a sun deck, where one can lounge while one fishes.

Lyle Hodges not only had the idea, but at his

"To be or not to be"

Members of the Elsinore School Board have once more set the wheels to turning and have set a date on which the people of the Elsinore School District will go to the polls and decide whether we should build a new high school or not.

The same question was put before the voters on the June ballot and it lost, thumbs down.

The board has changed its plans somewhat for the new measure will ask for bonds totaling $1,500,000 and acceptance of a state aid loan in a like amount.

In the defeated June bond election the amount being voted on were $2½ million in bonds and $2 million, state aid.

A decision of the location as to where the new school will be built is to be discussed at a later date, according to the board.

In the previous elections, the big issue was the fact that the board had chosen a Wildomar site (the land is already bought and paid for), and this was the big factor on the part of the voters who voted no.

Everyone seemed to be in favor of the new high school being built, but location was a different matter.

The date for the election is set for September 15.

Partnership ends

If you get the feeling that people speak of Elsinore West Marina and Lake Elsinore State Recreation Area Marina as if they were two different items instead of one, you are correct, for Jess Watkins and Jerry Stanley, who were partners on the construction of the marinas and many other ventures dissolved their partnership on June 10, 1961.

The Stanley organization now owns Elsinore West Marina and its associated properties and have established an office at 32789 Riverside Drive under the name of Elsinore West Inc.

Watkins retained control of the Lake Elsinore State Recreation Area Marina concession and his Elsinore office is at 15891 Grand. He also kept the Richey, Lake and Valley and the McCutcheon real estate offices.

Watkins is the builder of the 44 units on Jameson, off Grand Avenue.

These two men, who worked so well together and created a whole new world for Elsinore did well as partners, and should do even bigger and better things as separate organizations. ■

Leo Young wearing his engineer cap, stands behind the model of the 1911 locomotive he built. The track is the height necessary for Mr. Young to slide the engine into the back of the vehicle he uses to transport the engine to Griffith Park. Although it weighs 1150 pounds, Mr. Young moves it on the track with one hand.

ENGINEER LEO

Built his own miniature locomotive

First impressions are lasting" is how the proverbial saying goes.

In the matter of Leo Young of Menifee Valley, his memory of assisting his father, who was a machinist, make parts for a J. I. Case traction steam engine made a very deep impression, for Leo, later in life built a miniature of that tractor.

It was in the early 1900's and Leo was just a boy, but his memories of the Case tractor as it puffed its way through the midwestern grain belt during threshing season, began him on a hobby which has lasted almost thirty years.

The model of the Case tractor took three years to build. It spans seven and a half feet, weighs 135 pounds and develops 100 pounds of pressure in the boiler, while the engine develops 1.10 horsepower. Coal from Wales, England, is used to heat up a head of steam to operate the machine. The tractor is built on a scale of two inches to one foot.

The tractor has every lever, pulley, gear and device that was on the original full-scale model.

In 1956, he attempted his first locomotive, choosing the 1911 diesel used by the Southern Pacific Railroad Co., for high speed passenger and freight service through the rugged California mountain ranges.

He spent fourteen months, hand-tooling and machining component parts into an integral complex, which weighed 1150 pounds and is 10 feet in length—the locomotive.

This is a model of the locomotive which was a familiar sight in the local area until the 1930's when it gave way to the modern diesel. The tender holds 13 gallons of water and 7½ gallons of fuel. The miniature locomotive, on its flatbed cars is capable of pulling approximately forty-five people at one time.

Leo is a member of the Los Angeles Live Steamers, an organization of 135 other steam engine enthusiasts who work their working models on weekends at Griffith Park at Travel Town in the Los Angeles area. These hobbyists give free rides to the general public between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. on the 1600 feet of track provided for this purpose. Leo can usually be found, with his locomotive, at the park on the first Sunday of every month. This is the day he dons his engineer's cap, hooks up the flatbed cars that are at the park for this purpose, toots his miniature whistle and the fun is on.

These models, built by the members of the club, must pass rigid inspection and being off on any part just a quarter of an inch could cause the model to be rejected.

Leo Young does have a vocation as well as this avocation. He is an auto mechanic and his repair shop is located in front of his home on Scott Road and Highway 395.

While a boy he raced cars and in 1935 took a turn at Midget Racing. He has been around autos or their component parts all of his life, and at one time was strictly a Cadillac man, in fact in 1957 he was in charge of the family Cadillacs for the Kaynar Manufacturing Company of Pico-Rivera.

In February of 1964 he with his wife, Lulu and their son, Ken moved to their newly constructed home off Scott Road.

Mr. Young is justifiably proud of his engine and his tractor and when he discusses either with you, he radiates enthusiasm for model building.

When you are in the area of Scott Road and Highway 395, knock at the door and see for yourself a miniature of a J. I. Case tractor and a 1911 diesel locomotive, the work of one Leo Young, Menifee Valley resident. ■

FROM JOHN YOUNG LANDSCAPING MATERIALS

We are happy to announce that we are now the largest material supply yard in the Greater Sun City area.

This has been achieved through the combined efforts of our staff, the response of the Sun City home owners and area landscaping contractors.

We are a materials firm, which does not participate in contracting, landscaping or home beautification projects.

It is our opinion that projects of this technical nature should be left up to the individual home owner, if they are contemplating a "do-it-yourself" job, or to a licensed contractor.

We also feel that the experience of these contracting firms is one of the first requirements for securing a state license.

As a service to our customers, or individual home owners, we have on file a list of state licensed contractors. Their names are available to you upon request as a public service.

We also welcome the opportunity to assist home owners in determining their material needs if they choose to do their own work.

You can be sure of the finest quality materials and service available today when you specify to your contractor, architect and friends . . . Materials by

House of Carpets has new chief

Ray Discher's House of Carpets on the corner of Graham Avenue and Main Street in Elsinore has added Mrs. Lola Herrera to the staff as store manager.

Mrs. Herrera is well-versed in the field of decorating for she has been with Ray's other stores in Riverside and Arlington before coming to the Elsinore branch. Prior to that she was with the Sears store in Pomona. All in all, she has had about fifteen years of experience in the field of interior decorating.

Mrs. Herrera comes from a native Riverside family and knows this area quite well. She accepted the position with the Elsinore store because of her enthusiasm for the Valley.

Mr. Discher also has a lot of faith in Elsinore, for he has taken a six-year lease on the building at 100 North Main and has stocked it to capacity.

He states "I have an investment in Elsinore's future, as has everyone living there and I want to be a part of the future growth of Elsinore."

He further remarked, "I have a six-year lease in Elsinore and if I had not thought the area warranted this investment, I would never have opened the store, but I have faith in the town where I spent most of my childhood years, and sincerely hope that its future will live up to my expectations."

Ray's positive thinking of the Valley and the people who live here can bring him nothing but the best.

Stop in and visit with Lola and Ray, and at the same time cut out the coupon from the ad on Page 20 of this issue and give it to one of them at the same time.

Your magazine will be replaced at no cost at either La Laguna Revue offices for any coupon cut out. ■

Beach ready for swimming

Lake Elsinore State Park Marina now boasts of a beautiful sandy swimming beach that will handle 5000 to 6000 swimmers.

This beach is completely roped off from the boating area and Watkins Development Company, operators of the Marina, have engaged the services of a full-time licensed Red Cross lifeguard. The lifeguard will be on duty from 9 a.m. until closing, seven days a week.

Other swimming and playground facilities will be added soon to this fun spot for the entire family. ■

The gentleman holding the well-known emblem of the Lions Club is none other than T. C. Richards, newly elected president of the club and from the look on his face he likes his duties.

Speaking of liking the work, in this photo is Ed Ricketts with Diana Boyer of Nuevo. This little gal is a senior at PUHS, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Boyer of Nuevo and a Potato Queen candidate. Linda Thomas, Mary Humble and Verna Worley of Perris are also candidates, but were unavailable when the photos were taken.

Perris residents brag about the potatoes they raise, but after viewing the crop of lovely young ladies, they should put a little more emphasis on this subject. We'll give the name of the 1964 Queen in the September issue of the Revue.

Hope you made it to the festival, the carnival, the breakfast and the rest of the events . . . we did. ■

Editor's note: Diona Boyer of Nuevo was chosen Queen of the Potato Festival.

Theme for demotion party of Rotarians

John Brown was demoted from president to past president of the Rotary Club of Perris at the ninth annual Rotary Club Demotion Party held at the Statler Youth Cener on Friday evening, June 10.

The theme for the party was the "Roaring Twenties," but only after much confusion.

Original plans for the party were for a "Gay Nineties" theme, but a shortage of costumes became apparent, so the party coordinators notified Rotarians of the costume change, but a few did not receive the notice and it was the gayest of gay "roaring gay, twenty-nine-ty" party held.

Succeeding John as president will be Morgan Davis, better known to all as "Dell." The party began with the "happy hour" held on the patio and from there the guests went into the dining room where a fried chicken dinner was served to the Rotarians, their Rotaryans and guests.

After dinner, ex-president John was presented with a brown attache case, with his name engraved in gold lettering on the exterior. He was commended for the excellent job he did as president of the club and the completion of the project of building new public restrooms in Banta Beatty Park.

Dell Davis was then welcomed as the president of the 1964-65 term and he in turn introduced his new officers.

Serving with Dell will be Bob Perry, vice president; Dick Richards, secretary; Fred Furnivall, treasurer; John Brown, Harvey Goertzen and Merle Zeiders as directors and Al Adams and Clifford Martin, sergeants-at-arms.

Dinner, speechmaking and the welcomes completed, the group went again to the patio and it was there that Boots Clayton and his orchestra furnished music for the dancing.

As usual the demotion party was well attended and everyone enjoyed a fun-filled evening.

Administration Building of Elsinore Naval and Military School

Summer school begins for cadets

Class instruction for the 1964 summer session began at the Elsinore Naval and Military School on Monday, July 6, 1964, according to President, Colonel G. R. Conklin. The enrollment for the junior school (grades 1-6) includes a total of thirty-eight cadets and the senior school (grades 7-12) has reached a total of 79 cadets, making a total of 117 cadets, emphasized Colonel Conklin...

Cadets attend classes only in the morning between eight and twelve noon. During the afternoon they engage in many and different activities, such as, sports, swimming, volleyball, handball, etc. There is a competitive rivalry between the cadets since they are organized into teams with each team electing a captain. There is a rotation of the team schedules so that the cadets will be able to participate in each particular sport during the summer session.

Each Monday the entire Cadet Corps is transported to the Oceanside Beach at which time they may swim, engage in surfing, and regular sports on the beach. Classes are scheduled on Tuesdays through Saturdays during the summer session, concluded Colonel Conklin. ■

Each seventh and eighth grade student must take mathematics during the 1964 summer session. Mr. George Clarke is shown giving individual instruction to students in mathematics. As an essential part of the training program an introduction to algebra is presented toward the conclusion of the session so that the students will be better prepared for their regular ninth grade mathematics in September, beginning of the fall semester.

Mrs. Dorothy Long superintendent, Junior School, announced the appointment of Major William Knight as the assistant commandant to the cadets in the 1964 summer session. Major Knight attained his military rank during his years of service in the United States Marine Corps.

All was golden for the Tarrs

Half a century ago, on June 27, 1914, a wedding held in Los Angeles united in marriage Elizabeth (Bessie) Harrison McGahan and John Earl Tarr. She with her parents and a brother and sister had moved to that city in 1900 and John had come from Oklahoma in 1910. Their romance stemmed from their late teens.

Sunday, June 28, 1964, their golden wedding was celebrated with an afternoon "open house," preceded by a noon dinner for invited guests.

Mrs. Kenneth Sater, close friend of the Tarrs and the celebrants' son, John Earl Jr. and his wife, Lois, hosted the event at the Grand Avenue Civic Center.

Mrs. Bill Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Keegan, Lydia Robinson and Ramona Salisbury prepared and served a buffet dinner.

Sixty relatives and friends who came from out of town, were seated at tables decorated in gold and white with flowers in golden containers as the centerpieces. This celebration brought together many who had not seen each other for a number of years. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Craigmile of Los Angeles. Mrs. Craigmile is the only sister of Mrs. Tarr.

In 1940 the sisters hosted the golden wedding celebration of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. McGahan at the Happy Hour Club. A number of the guests who were in attendance at that anniversary joined the Tarrs for theirs.

Other guests at the dinner table were Mr. Tarr's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Tarr of North Hollywood and his youngest brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Tarr of Beverly Hills. The honored couple's five grandchildren, Allen, Cathy, Mike, Marcee and Cori were also present, as well as many nephews, nieces, cousins, grandnephews and grandnieces.

Mrs. Charles Bailey of Escondido, Mr. Tarr's only aunt, was the oldest guest present, her age being 84, and representing the very youngest of the young was 10-month old Susan Eileen Tarr, daughter of the Roy Tarrs. Susan's grandmother, Mrs. Nelle Tarr also was a guest.

Mrs. Emily Clapp, with her son Donald came from South San Gabriel. Mrs. Clapp is the only remaining attendant of the Tarrs' wedding.

From Hanford were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Blynn McGahan, their daughter, Barbara Lynn and their son, Joseph.

The Cragmiles and the McGahans were houseguests of the Tarrs several days before and after the celebration.

During the afternoon reception 168 persons signed the guest book which was presided over by Mrs. Walter Bartsch.

Mrs. Kenneth Howell and Mrs. Ellsworth Brady were in charge of the greeting card table, of which there were more than two hundred.

Centerpiece for the refreshment table was a four-tiered wedding cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. Clyde Hartwigsen of Costa Mesa, sister of Mrs. Sater. Glowing candles in crystal holders and identical floral pieces in golden tones flanked the cake. Punch was served by Mrs. Joseph McGahan. Mrs. Lois Tarr and Mrs. Hartwigsen served the cake and Mrs. Craigmile and Mrs. Theresa Wilks poured coffee.

Mr. and Mrs. Tarr came to Elsinore Valley in 1926 when their son Jack was seven years old. They developed a ten-acre ranch property located on Grand Avenue in the Wildomar area, where Jack attended the little school there. Iva Keegan was the only teacher at that time. Jack graduated from the Elsinore High School in 1936.

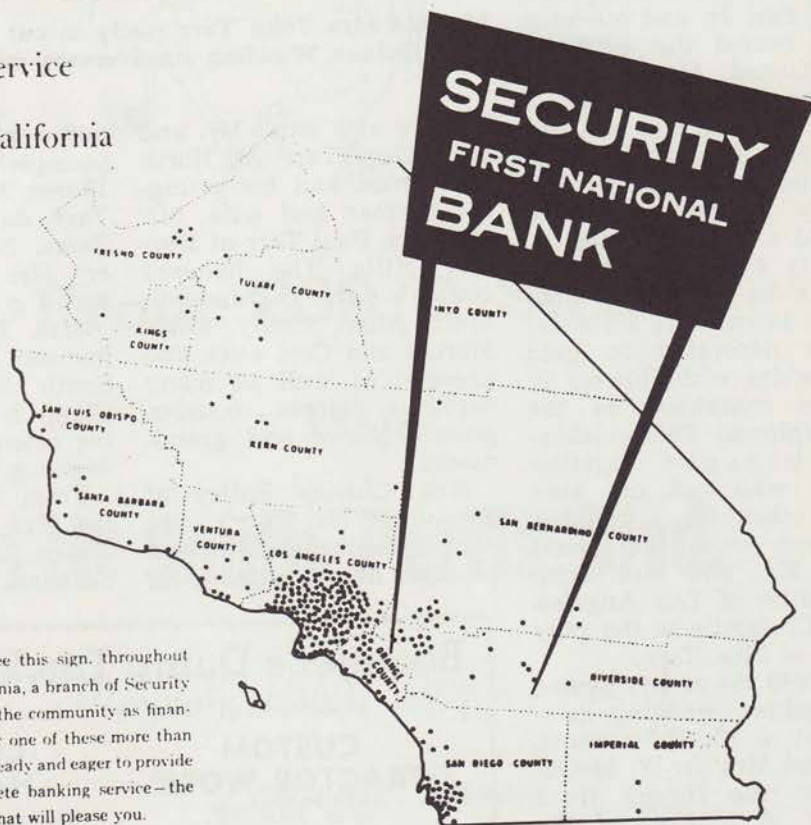

The old ranch house built in the 1880's was torn down in 1948 and a new spacious home was built on the same site. Through the years the Tarr home had been the center of many social and community affairs and the attendance at the time of the golden anniversary celebration attested to the friendships made.

About three years ago, the ranch was sold and the Tarrs spend their leisurely days at their little cottage at 18883 Grand Avenue.

Mrs. Tarr was secretary-clerk at the Elsinore Water District for more than ten years and later assisted Bennie and Tom Hudson in their newspaper, the Lake Elsinore Valley Sun.

Mr. Pettit, the incomparable, has opened a store in Sun City, the Valley Appliance and TV Store located next door to the postoffice.

Last week, while trying to write the subscription page to La Laguna Revue the publisher decided that too many of the stories were beginning with "A," "The" or "An" and in this issue and all forthcoming issues, no story was to begin with any of these "articles."

So I began the final page.

"The Laguna Revue is the greatest magazine . . .". That wouldn't do.

"A subscription to La Lagune Revue is the gift of gifts and . . .". Wow, he'd have an attack over that lead.

"An intelligent way to keep up with the growth of the Valleys and the people is to subscribe to the Revue . . .". This lead went into the circular file also.

Finally, I got it.
